Firemen still on scene of Saturday blaze

Fire destroys Oak St. building

By GEOFF MAVIS
Record-Herald Staff Writer

Alerted at 10:01 p.m. Saturday, Washington C.H. firemen spent all night battling a blaze that destroyed the Federal Chemical Co. building on Oak Street. Though the flames were subdued by Sunday morning, firemen still are on the scene to extinguish any recurring blazes.

Owned by a Cincinnati firm, and containing numerous bundles of tightly packed paper, the building caught fire in the back area, and by the time a pumper truck had arrived, leaping flames had already engulfed much of the structure.

Though only two firemen, Lt. William Smith, and Ron Cox, were on duty when the call came in, all the regular firemen and volunteers were summoned and lent their services throughout the critical hours of the fire.

Using approximately 2,800 feet of two and a half inch hose, and 800 feet of one and a half inch hose, firemen pumped 750 pounds of water a minute onto the burning building and surrounding structures. Water was sprayed at this pressure well into Sunday afternoon.

Because of the composition of the material inside the building, it was extremely difficult to subdue the flames within, firemen said. The tightly compacted paper bales were difficult to douse because water tended to slide off the flat surface areas.

Rainfall and a favorable wind direction helped the firefighting operations, but the fact that no adjacent wooden buildings were even slightly burned was due largely to 40 Washington C.H. firemen and volunteers who kept up constant streams of water against all areas of the building and nearby roof tops.

The vicinity of the fire was populated by a large number of spectators.

However, many area residents were present to donate their services to help the firemen. Washington C.H. police officers blockaded all streets leading to the building.

Individual members of the Jeffersonville and Good Hope fire departments rendered their firefighting abilities, while such groups as the Civil Defense unit, women's auxiliary and appreciative neighbors donated coffee and doughnuts for the firemen's benefit.

The building was completely gutted by the fire. The steel supporting structures were all melted, and the roof collapsed early in the fire's stages.

Flames flared up again late Sunday in the rear of the building, but were subdued. Members of the Washington C.H. Fire Department are expected to remain on the scene for the next few days.

Though the cause of the fire is undetermined at present, the incident is still under investigation by firemen. No one was injured.

While firefighting operations were underway at the Oak Street building, two other fire reports were received.

A flash fire resulting from the ignition of an uncapped gasoline can next to a hot water tank summoned firemen to the home of Mrs. Rowena Manns, 1150 Lewis St., at 10:04 a.m. Sunday.

Though there was approximately $300 worth of damage to the rear porch area, the fire had burned itself out when firemen arrived. However, a dog was killed by the flash fire, and 15-year-old Lester Manns, asleep inside, had to be rescued.

An overheated gas stove was the cause of a fire in a residence occupied by Howard D. Seaman, 834 E. Paint St. The 12:16 p.m. Sunday fire was extinguished by water and caused approximately $500 worth of damage to the structure and contents of one of the rooms.

Solons hope to end session

Utility bill pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senate-House conferees were called back into session today to make another effort to compromise on a long debated bill revising Ohio's utility rate-making formula.

It was the first development in a four-day drive to bring down the curtain on the legislature's current session, except for a three-day meeting in June to clean up final business and to act on possible gubernatorial vetoes.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, and Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, expressed confidence that the six-member conference committee can agree on the utility bill to permit final action before Thursday's adjournment.

However Riffe mentioned that if the committee fails to act by Tuesday, he would urge that the two chambers appoint a second committee of conference—the standard procedure when an initial committee deadlocks.

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, is chairman of the Senate-House panel which held three meetings last week but did little more than review provisions of the complicated bill.

The panel was named after Senate sponsors rejected House amendments as being overly favorable to utility lobbyists, and the initial deliberations indicated neither side was going to move from its position easily.

A key issue as the bill went into the committee was whether utilities should be permitted to include in their rate bases the funds already invested in construction work not completed. Sen. John T. McCormack, D-31 Euclid, the bill's chief sponsor, claims the House-inserted provision would result in the addition of millions of dollars annually to the bills of utility consumers and thereby subvert the purpose of his legislation.

McCormack, a conference committee member, said he will insist that the panel return to the Senate version. It had as its major thrust requiring utilities to build their rate base around the original cost of its plants and equipment and repealing the existing law that allows them to use current estimated replacement costs.

House conferees, including Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, fumed at McCormack's charge that the House yielded to lobby pressure in adopting the so-called "construction work in progress" amendment. McCormack has apologized for the statement.

Hinig and the others warned that the legislature, in its haste, may be moving in to restrict utility revenues to the point they will be unable to provide utility needs of Ohioans in the future.

A lobbyist for Toledo Edison Co. who has been monitoring the bill's progress, Leon Shaffer, said that to take away the existing formula allowing current replacement costs without putting back the construction work allowance would deprive electrical utilities of "nearly half" of their current rate base.

The rate base consists of those things that may be cited as cost of doing business by Ohio's telephone, electrical, and natural gas utilities when they appear before the Public Utilities Commission with a rate increase request.

Otherwise Riffe said he hoped but was not sure that the legislature can complete work by Thursday on a major bill designed to protect Ohio's homeowners from future increases in property taxes that result from inflation.

That measure was approved by the House several weeks ago but is awaiting action by the Senate Ways and Means Committee. The panel scheduled a meeting for tonight to review a subcommittee's recommendations on the measure.

Riffe said that if final legislative action is not possible this week, and it appeared unlikely due to extensive Senate amendments, the measure could be voted on when the lawmakers return for their planned session June 9 through 11.

The speaker also was uncertain whether there can be final House action this week on a controversial bill requiring lobbyists to make disclosures periodically on funds they are spending to influence legislation.

Riffe said he "didn't get a fair shake" in newspaper stories predicting the measure would fail to pass the House after being sent there by the Senate earlier this month.

The House State Government Committee scheduled hearings on the measure today and Tuesday, and the speaker said he will put it up for a floor vote this week if it emerges from the committee in time.

Riffe, reiterating that the Senate had the bill for "more than a year," said he favors a strengthening of lobby laws and added: "There's going to be a bill, if not this week, then later on this year."

Jury trials demanded

Petition circulators enter innocent pleas

By GEORGE MALEK

Four Washington C.H. residents have pleaded not guilty to election fraud and demanded jury trials.

Attorney Patrick Harkins appeared in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Monday morning to enter the pleas for his clients. Each is charged with knowingly making a false affidavit concerning the signatures on a referendum petition allegedly circulated by him.

William F. Stolzenburg, 54, of 804 Maple St., his wife Dorothy, 36, and Russell Pollard, 42, of 1335 Washington Ave., all appeared in court with their attorney.

The fourth defendant, Harold Gault, 69, of 508 Gibbs Ave., was not present. He is reportedly ill, but Harkins entered a not guilty plea on his behalf.

The defendants circulated petitions seeking a referendum vote on the former one-half percent city income tax ordinance during the latter part of March. The petitions were filed with city auditor Jack Stokhouse on March 30.

Before filing the petitions, each person circulating the document was required to sign before a notary that he had witnessed each signature on his petition.

The petition warns the circulator that the penalty for election falsification is imprisonment for up to six months and a fine of up to $1,000.

The circulator states by his notarized signature that "to the best of his knowledge and belief, each of the signatures contained thereon is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be."

After receiving the petitions, city

Saturday and Sunday at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Kenneth Craig, association president, said approximately 900 exhibitors attended the two-day event. He said there were nearly 700 outdoor exhibitors before the temperatures took a sharp drop, bringing rain and gusty winds.

"On Friday and Saturday they (the exhibitors) were coming in thick and fast, but Sunday they went home," Craig said.

A total of 3,500 cars paid the 25-cent parking fee over the two-day period. So many cars entered the fairgrounds on Saturday that association officials were forced to close the front entrance.

Competition for antique gun and Indian relic collectors was started again after the usual winter absence. The competition this month was for the best Winchester rifle manufactured during the 19th century.

A Dayton Ohio collector topped the field which attracted seven entries. The exhibitor won the competition with a 45-70 caliber, Model 86 rifle. The same exhibitor also placed third with a 44-40 caliber, Model 92 rifle.

A Washington C.H. man placed second with a 30-30 caliber, Model 94 Winchester rifle.

Craig said both the first and second place winners exhibited lever-action rifles and both were in "mint condition."

The seven entries included the first model ever manufactured, but Craig said it was in poor condition.

The next show will be held May 22-23 at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Craig said the competition had not yet been decided.

How long will luck hold out?

By GEORGE MALEK

Six minutes may not be a very long period of time to most of us, but it can mean the difference between life and death.

Less than six minutes of breathing hot, smoke-filled air will kill you. Even if you are receiving sufficient oxygen, super-heated air burns the lung lining and is fatal.

Try holding your breath and you'll find out how long six minutes can be.

This time period is approximately how long it took firemen to enter a home on Pearl Street Wednesday after they were summoned to a house fire.

The incident may pass quietly by because no tragedy resulted. It was eventually determined that no one was in the burning residence, and all turned out well. No one can take any credit for that. We were lucky, nothing more.

Only two firemen could be dispatched to the scene of the blaze. The kitchen was engulfed in flames when they arrived.

After borrowing the services of "civilians" to man a fire hydrant and move motorcycles, which posed a threat of explosion, one fireman operated the water supply on the truck while the other drew lines to the house.

From the outside, firemen could view the smoke-filled living room. Entry to bedrooms was blocked by the burning kitchen. In a grand heroic gesture, a fireman could have entered the burning house. At best, this would have resulted in greater fire damage to the house. At the worst, it could cost the fireman his life.

Alone in a burning structure, the fireman is in grave danger of being overcome himself. No one is likely to know he has been felled by the smoke and heat until the damage has been done.

In the actual case, the firemen did what was most sensible. They got the water flowing and hoped no one was inside.

Six minutes later, enough help arrived for two men (volunteers) to enter the house together to search for inhabitants. Fortunately, they found no one.

In addition to a chief and an assistant chief, there are 11 firemen. They fill three shifts. There are two four-man shifts and one three-man shift. Although the firemen know three men is not really sufficient, the public seems little concerned.

At least with three men, one can operate the truck's water supply while two men enter a building with hoses. It is the barest minimum, and a long way from ideal. This still leaves no one to open windows to relieve the heat and allow smoke to escape.

Last Wednesday, however, one man on the three-man shift was on vacation. With the two men remaining, little can be done but deliver the firetruck and wait for volunteers to arrive.

One of the four-man shifts is also short-handed. A fireman injured in December has been unable to respond to fires since that time.

Although he is available to answer telephones and handle other light duty, he is under doctor's orders not to engage in firefighting.

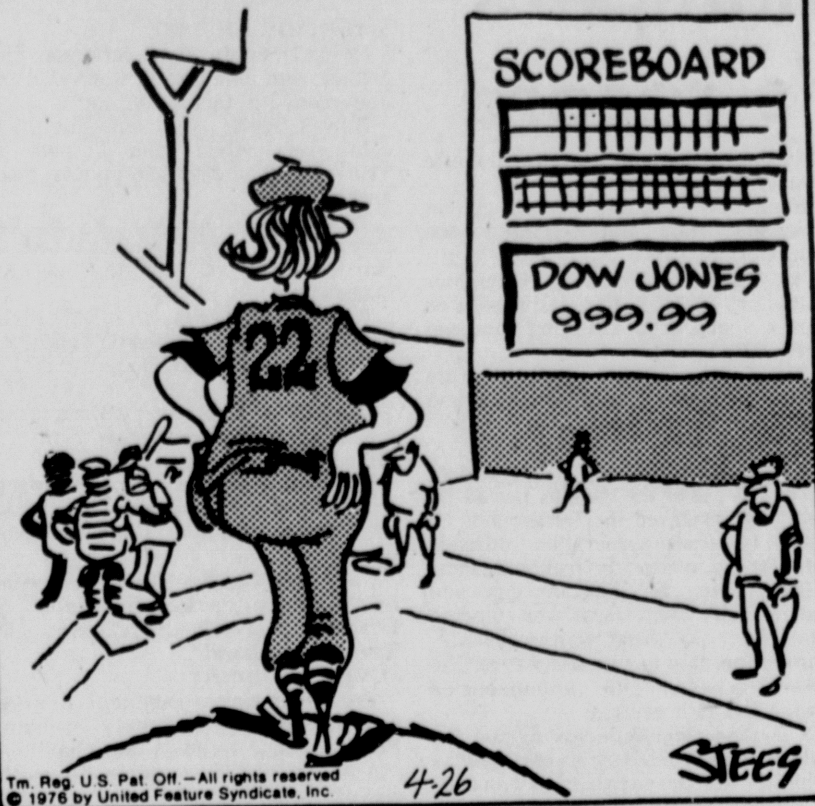

One part of Council's effort to trim the budget was to eliminate overtime for firemen. Thus, during vacations or sickness the shift just works short-handed rather than having its vacancy filled by a regular fireman on overtime.

The dollar savings are important in light of the city's financial situation. Area citizens barely notice that the fire department is understaffed, and there is little public dissent.

The lack of funding for the Washington C.H. Fire Department may have little effect. It may not mean more than a few extra dollars damage at the scene of a fire.

On the other hand, we may just pay with someone's life.

Most state cities tax income

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thirty years after the first municipal income tax was imposed, 215 of the state's 232 cities and 174 villages rely on a local levy for government operations.

"Since 1966," the Ohio Public Expenditure Council reports, "there has been a dramatic increase in the number of Ohio cities and villages imposing a municipal income tax."

Of the 389 local tax levies in existence, the council says 244 have been enacted in the last 10 years.

Don't look for the local income tax to go away either. It is the "financial mainstay of many Ohio cities and villages," according to the council, an independent research group.

A House Ways and Means subcommittee is studying legislation that would extend taxing powers to counties and school districts. Only municipalities have such local authority under current law.

In 1974, $471.9 million municipal income tax dollars were collected, a 10.8 per cent increase over the previous year.

"This increase exceeded the $34.4 million increase in total property taxes levied for county, township and municipal government during the corresponding period," the researchers note. Property taxes are the main source of revenue for public schools.

Local tax rates range from a low of 1/4 of 1 per cent to 2 per cent.

Fifty-five per cent of the local income tax money was generated in Ohio's 10 largest cities. Cincinnati, with a 2 per cent rate, led the way in 1974 with $57.8 million in tax revenue, the only top 10 city bringing in more than $100 per capita. Springfield also taxed at 2 per cent, but the much smaller city collected only $5.4 million.

Cleveland and Parma boasted 1 per cent rates, the lowest among big cities. Cleveland, however, was third in actual tax dollars realized with $50.2 million.

Columbus, Toledo, Akron, Canton and Youngstown all tax at 1 1/2 per cent. Dayton is at 1 3/4.

"On a statewide basis, 25 (smaller) municipalities had per capita income tax collections of $100 to $200," the council says.

"It all began 30 years ago," the watchdog tax group reported. "Toledo, in 1946, was the first Ohio municipality to levy an income tax."

Spring workshop set at Burr Oak

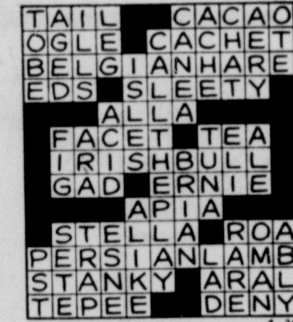

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources will conduct a spring conservation workshop at Burr Oak State Park near Athens May 14-16.

The workshop, designed to allow an exchange of ideas with department officials, will include a field trip and sessions on environmental education.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Woman irked by beau's nosy habits

DEAR ABBY: Something bothers me, and I would like your opinion and the opinion of others who have dealt with this problem.

Is it considered proper to smell food that is served to you before eating it? I am seriously considering marrying a man who does this, and I find it extremely irritating and embarrassing. He smells the food in the finest restaurants, at the home of friends and even in my home. It's not just a quick sniff—he puts his nose right down near the food and smells it thoroughly.

We are both in our late 50s and have been married before. Outside of this one fault, he is intelligent, charming and delightful company. But I'm not sure I could sit down for three meals a day with a man who has this disgusting habit. Or am I too picky?

PICKY ME
DEAR PICKY: Diplomatically tell the gentleman that his habit bothers you and suggest that he be less obvious about it. Don't insist that he drop the habit unless you want to drop HIM. Old habits die hard.

DEAR ABBY: Dad and us kids want to get Mom a "mother's bracelet" for Mother's Day. It will have a charm with each of her children's name and birth date engraved on it.

Last year my oldest brother died, and I wonder if we should include his name and birth date. He was a very important part of our family, even though he was mentally retarded.

Do you think it would make Mom sad to have his charm on her bracelet? We don't want to make her unhappy but we don't want her to think we have forgotten him. Thank you.

MOM'S KIDS
DEAR KIDS: Include a charm for your oldest brother. I think your mom would appreciate it. You are very loving and thoughtful children to consider it.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I disagree on something and hope you can settle it.

Is it all right to tell a hostess to please put the dogs and cats out of sight during dinner?

The situation is as follows: My wife's mother has two dogs and three cats who have the run of the house. I don't mind pets if they are clean-looking and don't stay under my feet all the time. My mother-in-law's pets are always on her lap. She feeds them while she eats and serves others, which spoils my appetite.

Also, one dog is part St. Bernard, and he drools and slobbers all the time, which also isn't very appetizing. Plus the cats seem to have chronic eczema, and their visible sores turn my stomach. My wife says Mom's pets are like her "children," and as guests, we should look the other way and not say anything.

I say, I should politely ask Mom to please put the pets in another room while we're eating.

What do you say?
WEAK STOMACH
DEAR WEAK: If your description of the pets is accurate, I'm with you all the way!

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, April 26, the 117th day of 1976. There are 249 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1607, Capt. John Smith landed at Cape Henry, Va., with the first group of colonists who would establish a permanent English settlement in America.

On this date: In 1783, 7,000 Tories sailed from New York for Nova Scotia.

In 1785, the American naturalist and artist John James Audubon was born in Haiti.

In 1865, Abraham Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, was captured on a farm near Port Royal, Va.

In 1925, Paul von Hindenberg was elected president of Germany.

In 1954, it was announced that 900,000 American children would receive injections in a nationwide test of Salk antipolio vaccine.

In 1964, the African nations of Tanganyika and Zanzibar merged, forming Tanzania.

Ten years ago: A sidewinder missile, launched by a U.S. jet, shot down the first Communist MIG21 of the Vietnamese war.

Five years ago: A presidential commission recommended that Communist China be admitted into the United Nations, with Nationalist China retaining its membership.

One year ago: Tens of thousands of labor union members marched and rallied in Washington, urging government action to provide more jobs.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Carol Burnett is 42. Writer Bruce Jay Friedman is 46.

Thought for today: We must not, in opening our schools to everyone, confuse the idea that all should have equal chance with the notion that all have equal endowments — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Centennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Congress acted on petitions arising from reverses in the Northern campaign. One general was advanced $200 because of a lack of money.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, APRIL 27

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Someone may try to involve you in a personal problem. Steer clear of the situation — as your instinct probably warns.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Whatever your plans, take into account new trends and ideas, changing maneuvers to fit current situations.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Benevolent Mercury influences now heighten imagination and encourage your ingenious methods. Capitalize on ALL of your talents and you should do extremely well.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Especially favored now: conferences, making plans for the future, pursuits which stimulate the intellect.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Hold off expansion of activities until you make sure you are within safe limits, and can handle the "extras" without deserting primary interests.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Favorable stellar influences stimulate your ingenuity. Managing present situations cleverly will be wiser than reaching for "better prospects," however.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Pay no heed to glowing reports or sensational rumors — especially if finances are involved. Keep on an even keel and you should do well.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Be ready to face competition. You usually enjoy the stimulation of this, but don't burn the candle at both ends in your desire to get ahead. Easy does it!

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

An associate will offer some unexpected assistance. Be receptive. The proffered help will be genuine, the motive sincere.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Routine will probably bore you now, but don't idle time away. Get busy on one of your pet creative projects. Influences stimulate original ideas.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

If you've been interested in a new project but have postponed taking action, NOW is the time! But be sure you have the know-how and enough data to go on.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

There are tendencies now to take off on tangents and to ease up in effort just when more persistence is needed. Don't fail yourself by yielding to such inclinations.

YOU BORN TODAY are meditative, scholarly, intuitive and extremely sensitive. This sensitivity works best in the field of healing, which is why so very many noted surgeons, physicians and nurses have been born under the Sign of Taurus. But it also gives you awareness in many other directions, such as invention, philosophy, writing and painting. You are also indomitable. In military and scientific affairs, for instance, you believe that the "impossible" can be done — and do it. The word "genius" best sums up the well-developed Taurean born on this date.

Washington address not genuine item

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American history sleuth, contradicting the French ambassador, says George Washington did not sign the engraved copy of his 1796 Farewell Address that France has offered as a gift to commemorate the American Bicentennial.

In fact, Washington had been dead for at least 15 years when the copy was engraved and it was not his widow, Martha, but their grandchildren who gave the document to the French Marquis de Lafayette, according to John A. Castellani, librarian of Washington's Mount Vernon estate.

A delegation from France's Senate is scheduled to present the engraving to their American Senate counterparts next month during the visit of French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

When French Ambassador Jacques Kosciuszko-Morizet announced the gift in January, he said it was "signed by Washington himself and sent by Martha Washington to Lafayette." In the famous 6,000-word address, Washington exhorted his countrymen to avoid party bickering and to have "as little political connection as possible" with foreign nations.

Castellani emphasized that the engraving "is not a phony." "It's an original for what it is. It's a very nice gift — an early 19th century engraving of George Washington's address, with a facsimile of his signature," Castellani said today. "It just is not signed by George Washington. The French government simply believed it to be something that it is not."

"It's a scarce item, with a magnificent job of calligraphy." It was apparently done by a Philadelphia firm between 1814 to 1819, Castellani said. Two of the five artists and engravers who signed the document "weren't born until the mid-1790s, and they couldn't have worked on it when they were only one or two years old."

The U.S. Senate's curator of art and antiquities, James R. Ketchum, said the Senate is likely to welcome the gift anyway.

A great-great-grandson of Lafayette, Count Rene de Chambrun, donated the framed engraving to the French government last year. It had hung in Lafayette's mansion, La Grange, where de Chambrun lives. A French diplomat said his government did not research the document's history.

Castellani declined to estimate the engraving's value.

Senior Citizens observe birthdays at SC Center

The Senior Citizens of Delaware St. held their regular by-monthly birthday party Friday. Those who were honored had birthdays in March and April and those who had planned it had birthdays the preceding two months.

The Rev. Henry A. Simmons gave the invocation preceding the covered-dish dinner which was enjoyed by approximately 90 members. The honored guests were seated at especially appointed tables, though all tables were centered with colorful spring flowers and Fuji mums.

While everyone was being served, Mrs. Ray Underwood, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse, played appropriate background music.

Following the dinner, Miss Mary Frances Snider, the director of Senior Citizens, welcomed all. She announced that reservations for the bus trip to Holland, Mich., the Ford Museum and Lincoln Village, May 10-14, were all filled. She also announced there were a few opening left for the trip to Hawaii May 18-25. If anyone is interested, please contact Miss Snider now. Also announced was that Floyd Dowler is now residing at the home of Earl Leisure, 607 Willard St.

Members made application for their Golden Buckeye Cards issued through the Ohio Commission on Aging, and also for special courtesy cards issued by a local restaurant.

The program of the afternoon was in keeping with the Bicentennial theme, in which those who participated wore appropriate costumes. The group sang "Happy Birthday" and "The More We Get Together." A trio, composed of Emmitt Shaper, Jeff Taylor and Ted Merritt, sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "On the Banks of the Wabash," "Sweet Adeline," and "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

Marriage announced

Miss Carol Ann Spengler became the bride of Russell E. Dilly Jr., when the Rev. Ray Russell performed the marriage ceremony in First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Wayne O. Spengler, 7390 White Oak Rd., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Dilly Sr., of 7649 White Oak Rd.

Miss Spengler chose for her marriage a light rose street-length dress and she carried a single rose.

Her sister, Mrs. Jerry Bryan, served as matron of honor. She wore a light blue street-length dress and a corsage of white carnations with blue tips.

Jim Deskins served as best man for his cousin.

Both the bride and groom are seniors at Miami Trace High School. Mr. Dilly is also employed by Agricor. They are residing at 7390 White Oak Rd.

Honorary membership presented

An Honorary Membership in the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic was extended to Ms. Viva White, widow of a Civil War Veteran, and only surviving widow in this area.

The honorary membership was conferred by Mrs. Nona Stevens, president of the local Chapter 25, Mrs. Mary Black, chaplain, Mrs. Florence Toops, historian, and Miss Florence Hidy, guard.

Mrs. White is the widow of Henry P. White who was a member of Co. H., 176 OVI, in the Civil War.

Her daughter, Miss Frances White, accepted by the pledge of membership at the same time.

The local chapter is made up of some 30 members who are direct descendants of union veterans of the Civil War or connected by marriage. The original organization was formed for the relief of all sic and needy veterans or their dependants, but time has removed that aim and the group now reaches out to teach patriotism and good citizenship, and to preserve the memory of the patriots of this nation.

Mrs. Marjorie Crider presented an accordion solo. She played "Amazing Grace," "Give Me That Old Time Religion," and "I Won't Have to Cross Jordan Alone." Mrs. E. Lavern Morgan sang "Beautiful Dreamer," and "The Old Spinning Wheel." Readings presented by Mrs. Edith Scott were "Grandma Just Ain't What She Used to Be," "Mother Is a World Called Love," "What is Mother?" and "Mother's Once Were Daughters."

A medley of old songs including "Wabash Cannon Ball" and "Red Wing" were played on the mandolins by Mrs. Doris Diffendal and Mr. Loring Harrop. Mrs. Roy Underwood played on the violin "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and "And the Band Played On." Mrs. Lillit Grabill read "What Will Tomorrow Bring?" Vocal solos sung by Emmitt Shaper were "After the Ball," "In the Good Old Summer Time," and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

A harmonica solo by Mrs. Harry E. Fultz was entitled "Roll Over Jordan, Roll." Mrs. Underwood and Mrs. Diffendal presented on the violins, "Let the Rest of the World Go By," and "Moonlight and Roses."

A rhythm number by Mrs. Bertie Grabill (spoons), Ted Merritt (drums) were "Smiles," and "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover." Another instrumental number presented by Mrs. Underwood (violin), Mrs. Diffendal (mandolin), Mrs. Giebelhouse (piano), and Mrs. Harrop (banjo), included "The Old Grey Mare," "Oh Dem Golden Slippers," "Quilting Party," "Soldiers Joy," and "Turkey in the Straw."

Lioness Club to observe anniversary

The 28th anniversary will be observed by the Washington C.H. Lioness Club, when members meet at the Country Club May 4. All past presidents are invited to attend and reservations or cancellations must be made by Monday. The group received their charter in 1948.

All newly-elected officers will be installed by Richards Coates.

The social hour will be at 6:30 and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

La Leche League to meet Wednesday

The third in a series of four meetings "Good Mothering Through Breast Feeding" of La Leche League will be held Wednesday, April 28, in the home of Mrs. Jay Smith, 903 S. Hinde St., at 8 p.m. The topic for this month is "Baby Arrives: The Family and the Breastfed Baby," led by Mrs. Lynn Shoemaker.

The group is open to any mother, whether she is presently nursing her baby, plans to nurse her new baby, or is full of questions and doubts about nursing being right for her. Help with problems and questions concerning nursing may be obtained from Mrs. Shoemaker by phone (335-1037) or Mrs. JoAnne Jacobson (948-2405).

Mothers are asked to bring their baby and enjoy an evening of valuable information, good conversation and refreshments.

Mrs. Case attends Choir Festival

Mrs. John P. Case, 330 Jupiter St., spent Saturday at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Upper Arlington, attending the 12th annual Diocesan Choir Festival. Men and Women from church choirs in the area, under the leadership of Diocesan Music Committee chairman the Rev. Raymond Sturm and choral director Ruth Morgan, rehearsed all day singing eight anthems by American composer, the earliest William Billings of colonial times, and the latest, a young man in Columbus, Randolph Currie. At 4 p.m., there was a public performance of the eight anthems at a service of choral evensong.

Socialists win vote in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Socialist party stayed on top as returns were counted today from Portugal's first free parliamentary election in 50 years, but there was no chance of its getting the majority it sought in the new 263-seat parliament.

Socialist leader Mario Soares rejected overtures from the center and right to join in a coalition government. Other influential members of his party said such a coalition was inevitable.

The election outcome opened the way for the ouster of the Moscow-line Communists from the government of this member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for the first time since the military revolution two years ago.

With about 77 per cent of Sunday's votes tallied, the Socialists had 35.21 per cent of the vote, compared with 37.9 per cent in the election of the constituent assembly last year.

The centrist Popular Democrats were in second place with 23.87 per cent, compared with 26.4 per cent last year; and the Communists had 14.97 per cent, up slightly from 12.5 per cent.

The only big gainers were the conservatives of the Social Democratic Center. They had 15.32 per cent of the votes, double their showing last year, and nosed ahead of the Communists to take third place.

This conservative gain was viewed as a backlash against the confused and ineffectual leftist provisional governments that have held office since the armed forces overthrew the Salazar-Caetano dictatorship two years ago.

The rest of the votes were scattered among 10 splinter parties. Final results were expected late today.

Francisco sa Carneiro, head of the Popular Democrats, and Diogo Freitas do Amaral, president of the Social Democratic Center, called on the Socialists to join them in a coalition. Soares rejected the center-right offer, and he also said an alliance with the Communists was out of the question. But pressure was building up within his own party to come to terms with the two other major anti-Communist parties.

Soares predicted before the election that the Socialists would get at least 42 per cent of the vote. He said if they could not govern alone, they would lead the opposition.

War planning said necessary

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — "We're in the age of the 'come-as-you-are war,'" and national security demands planning now, Lt. Gen. George Rhodes told an audience here Saturday.

Speaking to members of the Dayton Chapter of the National Security Industrial association and the Wright Memorial chapter of the Air Force Association, Rhodes said the future of America demands more public awareness of the ever-expanding military and industrial strength of the Soviet Union.

The Soviets lead the United States in number of ICBMs, submarine-launched ballistic missiles, military manpower and per cent of the gross national product dedicated to defense spending, the three-star general said. Rhodes, vice commander of Air Force Logistics, indicated that current budget trends have damaged America's military power and ability to meet the challenge of modern warfare.

Rubber negotiations to resume today

CLEVELAND (AP) — After taking the weekend off to reassess the issues, rubber industry labor negotiators headed back to the bargaining table today for renewed efforts at ending a six-day-old United Rubber Workers strike against the industry's Big Four.

Meanwhile, the strike took on an international flavor, with the Japanese Rubber Workers threatening to strike and URW President Peter Bommarito meeting in Geneva with leaders of the six-million member International Federation of Chemical and General Workers Union.

The talks between URW and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. representatives were recessed Friday at the request of federal mediators, who called for reassessment of issues.

The URW has focused on Firestone as the most likely candidate for meeting pay increase demands totaling $5.50 an hour—about 42 per cent—over a three-year period, and talks with the other three major tire firms in three other cities have taken a back seat.

Firestone's pay hike offer stood at $1.15 an hour over the three years. Federal mediator Gayle Weinriter said there might be new economic offers in the talks resuming this afternoon.

URW leaders say they need the big jump to catch up and keep pace with auto workers. The average pay for the 60,000 URW members covered by contracts with the Big Four of the rubber industry was estimated by the union at $9.05 an hour.

Negotiations with Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. were located in Cincinnati, B.F. Goodrich Co. in Columbus and Uniroyal Inc. in New York.

The Geneva discussions concerned plans for an international boycott of Firestone products. Chemical workers' union leaders already have pledged support for the strike against Firestone and its subsidiaries.

Boycott picketing of Firestone products is set to start May 8 if no agreement is reached before then. URW leaders say boycotts will be held in seven U.S. cities—Akron and Dayton, Ohio; Des Moines, Iowa; Memphis, Tenn.; Long Beach, Calif.; New Haven, Conn.; and Pottstown, Pa.—and Toronto, Ont.

An International boycott has never been used by the URW, but union officials hope it will be an effective way of putting pressure on a multinational corporation such as Firestone.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

Continued Congressional commitment to water pollution abatement nationwide was demonstrated last week with approval by the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation of a three-year extension of the federal program to help communities clean up their rivers and streams.

The bill, which I co-sponsored, not only authorizes federal grants of more than $18 billion to state and local governments for water pollution control; it actually reforms the program to speed up construction of sewage treatment facilities.

In extending the programs of the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act through fiscal years 1978 and 1979, the legislation calls for greater state authority over the administration of the program, although federal oversight will continue. The federal share of the cost for those eligible municipal waste water treatment plant construction projects will still be 75 per cent.

Increasing the authority, responsibility and funding of state water pollution control agencies should help speed up construction of needed sewage treatment facilities, hold down costs, and strengthen control over the program at all levels of government.

The legislation would also change the formula for allocating federal funds for treatment works construction. Presently a state's needs are the only factor in determining its share of the federal funds. In combining population and needs, the committee bill represents a compromise between the all-needs formula and a far more sweeping Senate-passed provision giving greater weight to population.

Municipalities which cannot complete their secondary sewage treatment plants within the original time limit may be able to extend their deadlines from July 1, 1977, to July 1, 1982.

The Environmental Protection Agency, under the bill's provisions, will be permitted to make such extensions on a case-by-case basis.

Industries to be served by plants in these communities would also be eligible for time extensions. If a municipality is introducing innovative treatment technology, the deadline may be extended to July 1, 1983.

Besides supporting facilities construction, funds would be provided for manpower training, assistance for state program administration, planning, and the Clean Lakes program.

A controversial amendment added in committee would limit the authority of the Corps of Engineers to regulate dredge or fill activities in bodies of water now navigable or capable of being improved to serve waterborne commerce—instead of all U.S. waters as now required.

Stringent penalties will be imposed under this legislation on those found guilty of discharging hazardous substances into the nation's waters. Maximum penalties of $50,000, but up to $500,000 for repeat offenders are authorized. Unlimited penalties would apply in cases of willful negligence or misconduct or failure to obey clean-up directives.

Municipalities which use the ad valorem tax system at the time they apply for a federal waste treatment grant may use that method to recover operation and maintenance costs of those plants. EPA, however, would be required to determine that the plant costs would be shared proportionately among the various classes of users.

This legislation takes aim at time-consuming paperwork and bureaucracy. It streamlines the procedure for processing grant applications for projects costing $1 million or less, which applies to about a third of all applicants.

The Administrator of EPA would be permitted to accept state approval of local applications for construction grants, subject to a determination by EPA that a state has the necessary authority and capability to certify these applications.

If a community shows that it cannot get reasonable financing together for its 25 per cent matching funds to qualify for a federal construction grant, it may obtain an EPA guarantee of its bonds in the amount needed.

Authorizations for the construction grants program must still be approved by the Appropriations Committee.

This is an urgently needed bill, drafted to attack the urgent problem of water pollution. It is a problem that cannot be put on the back burner.

Teater to become vice chairman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert W. Teater, Ohio Natural Resources Director, will become vice chairman of the Ohio River Basin Commission in July, the commission announced Saturday.

The ORBC, serves as the principal agency for the coordination of water and related land resources planning in the 11-state Ohio River Basin region.

The 11 states include Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and New York.

Capital receives major grants

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Capital University said Saturday it has received major grants from the Columbus Foundation and the Cleveland-based Martha Holden Jennings Foundation to be used toward the cost of a new university reading center.

The center will offer individualized diagnosis and treatment programs for area elementary and secondary school students who have special reading problems. It also will provide inservice training for public school teachers, the university said.

The university said the $23,325 grant from the Jennings Foundation and a $13,864 gift from the Columbus Foundation will help cover the cost of equipment, furnishings and personnel for the facility scheduled to open in September.

Damage only moderate in majority of crashes

Officers probe 13 weekend mishaps

Though 13 traffic accidents were investigated over the weekend, damage was moderate in most cases. In one incident, however, a Fayette County man's car was demolished after it travelled approximately 150 feet out of control.

Mark J. Hartley, 23, of Rt. 4, was northbound on the Prairie Road when he lost control of his car on a curve about a mile north of the Bloomington-New Holland Road at 2:53 a.m. Saturday. The car travelled for 65 feet on the right berm, came back on the road and went 81 feet left of center before landing in a ditch and striking an end post. Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that the car was demolished. Hartley was not injured.

SUNDAY—, 7 p.m. — Jane R. Summers, 22, of 419 Western Ave., was northbound on Ohio 753, when she lost control of her car on a curve just south of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad Co. tracks. The car went off the left side of the road and struck a parked car belonging to Jesse A. Linton, of Good Hope. There was moderate damage to both cars, and Ms. Summers was cited for operating an unsafe vehicle.

12:15 p.m. — A trailer containing a metal building was being pulled on Ohio 41-N by a tractor driven by Carl E. Krieger, 40, of Eastview Drive, when the building slid off near the I-71 overpass. It fell into the northbound lane where it struck a car driven by Kenneth E. Blade, 29, of 664 Staunton-Jasper Road. There was severe damage to Blade's car.

3:15 a.m. — Cars driven by Shannon W. Boylan, 18, of 922 Lakeview Ave.,

and Ricky E. Lightle, 21, of Greenfield, were southbound on Ohio 41-S when Boylan's car struck Lightle's in the rear just south of Ohio 753. Moderate damage to both cars resulted, with Boylan cited for failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

SATURDAY—Sheriff's deputies reported that sometime Saturday, two rods of fence along the Beale Road, about a half mile west of the junction of CCC Highway-E were damaged by a hit-skip vehicle.

POLICE

SUNDAY—5:20 p.m. — A car driven by Roger L. Haines, 25, of 159 Joanne Drive, reportedly failed to slow in enough time and struck a car stopped for traffic on W. Court Street at the junction with N. Hinde Street. The struck car was driven by Jack J. Ellis, 22, of 159 Joanne Drive, and the impact caused it to move forward and strike another car stopped for traffic driven by Nina K. Mumme, 21, of 127 W. Elm St. There was severe damage to Haines' car, and he was later charged with failing to maintain an assured distance ahead. The other cars received slight damage.

3:58 p.m. — Exiting from Kroger's supermarket parking lot, a car driven by Renee A. Snider, 27, of 705 McArthur Way, pulled into the path of a car driven by Robert E. Williams, 16, of 604 Eastern Ave., which was northbound on Draper Street. Ms. Snider cited for failure to yield and there was slight damage to her car. Williams' car was moderately damaged.

3:58 p.m. — Jeffery L. Satterfield, 16, of Jeffersonville, told police officers that as he was eastbound on Clinton Avenue, he was unable to stop because of the wet pavement and struck a car driven by Darrell L. Upp, 24, of 912 Davis Court, in the rear. The Upp vehicle had also been eastbound on Clinton Avenue, waiting at the junction with Green Street. There was slight damage to both cars.

3:37 a.m. — Attempting to make a right turn into his driveway a, a car driven by Steven Stritenberger, 18, of 623 Clinton Ave., was struck in the rear by a car driven by Carol A. Trabbil, 33, of 678 Robinson Road. Both cars had been eastbound on Clinton Avenue, and both sustained moderate damage. Ms. Trabbil was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

SATURDAY, 8:25 p.m. — A car driven by Lores F. Williams, 18, of 315 Forest St., reportedly ran a red light on Columbus Avenue, and struck a car driven by Jack G. Mosts, 35, of 419 East St., which was attempting to turn from Delaware Street onto Clinton Avenue. There was moderate damage to both cars as a result, and Williams was charged with a red light violation.

7:41 p.m. — A car driven by William T. Dennis, 16, of 1328 Meadow Drive, struck a car parked on Forest Street owned by Gary L. Long, 609 E. Temple St. The accident occurred just north of E. Market Street, and Dennis, later cited for operating an unsafe vehicle, stated that his accelerator had been stuck. Moderate damage to both cars resulted.

4:02 p.m. — Eastbound on Court Street, a car driven by Larry L. Young, 38, of Lodi, attempted to change from the center to the right lane and sideswiped a car driven by Stanford L. Sexton, 59, of Pataskala, also eastbound. The accident occurred near Circle Avenue, and both cars were moderately damaged. Young was cited for changing lanes without safety.

1:20 p.m. — A car driven by Roger L. Rhodes, 22, of Mount Sterling, was backing from a parking space in the Hidy Food store parking lot when it struck a car driven by Dorothy L. Woods, 52, of Greenfield. There was slight damage to the Woods car.

A touch of winter returned to Ohio on the heels of an intense storm that passed through the state Sunday.

Temperatures tonight are expected to plummet to the mid 20s or mid 30s, and a freeze warning is up for the entire state.

The winter-like weather will continue Tuesday as brisk northerly winds pour cold Canadian air across the state. A few flurries will fall in the northeast while partly cloudy skies prevail over the rest of the state.

Tuesday's highs will be a repeat of today's with readings in the 40s or 50s. Moderating temperatures will move in about Wednesday.

Fair Wednesday and Thursday with a chance of showers Friday. Highs Wednesday in the low 50s and lows in the 30s, warming by Friday to highs in the low 60s and lows in the low 40s.

Abuse probe hampered

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Efforts by a public interest group to investigate abuses by businesses will be seriously hampered by a funding handicap imposed by the Indiana University Board of Trustees, organization officials said.

University records show that support for the Indiana Public Interest Research Group (InPIRG) is down 50 per cent since 1973 when the school first provided students with a voluntary contribution system during registration for classes.

The board approved a new fee collection policy last December, thereby abolishing optional student contributions, because of conflict of interests, according to John Fitzgerald, chairman of the state InPIRG board of directors.

He said many trustees and IU administrators are associated with businesses under the group's critical eye.

InPIRG members said their 1973 fight against an Indiana Bell Telephone Co. rate hike request; their investigation of possible violations of the Federal Truth and Lending Act by Indiana banks and their criticism of utility company practices in 1974 contributed to the board's decision.

Bergman arrives in Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film director Ingmar Bergman, looking for a place to continue his work and his life, is in Hollywood to discuss his plans after leaving Sweden in anger.

"I improvise from day to day," Bergman said on his arrival Sunday. Asked where he will settle, he said, "All I know is I am meeting Monday with Dino De Laurentiis; I have a very good relationship with Mr. De Laurentiis."

But when a woman at the airport asked, "Why don't you settle in America?" he replied, "I don't know. Perhaps tomorrow I will decide to stay."

De Laurentiis was Bergman's producer for the American release of "Face to Face," the latest in the filmmaker's explorations of human relationships.

Bergman, 57, seemed jovial and shook hands all around as he arrived here with his wife. A severe depression had settled on the director after he was charged with tax fraud by the Swedish government last January.

Bergman was cleared of the fraud charges, but his back taxes are still in question and he decided to abandon Sweden, leaving his wealth behind.

In a bitter open letter, he accused tax officials of blackmail and said he had been "attacked and humiliated by a special kind of bureaucracy that grows like a galloping cancer."

At annual state FFA convention

MT chapter ranks fourth in state

Friday and Saturday over 5,500 Future Farmers of America members, parents and guests convened at the Ohio State Fairgrounds, Columbus, to take part in the 48th annual State FFA Convention.

The convention theme for the bicentennial year was "A Future for America - FFA." It was held to honor the accomplishments of chapters and individuals who compete for the many awards that the FFA has to offer and to allow local chapter delegates to participate in the operation of running their state organization.

The first session of the convention was called to order Friday evening by Rob Hovis, State FFA president from Kansas, Ohio. Hovis presented distinguished service plaques to four local individuals who have donated to the Ohio FFA Foundation, Inc. for 10 consecutive years. The money donated to the Foundation is presented to outstanding FFA members from throughout Ohio who have achieved success in one of the various award areas.

Individuals given service plaques included J.W. Beam of Melvin Stone

Co., Sabina; David Owens of Owens Duroc Farm, Jeffersonville; Charles Andrews of Andrews and Baughn Hampshire Hogs, Bloomingburg; and Mr. William Heinz of Heinz Nu-Way Feeds, Bloomingburg.

Individual and chapter awards were then presented. Chris Garland and Jeff Wilt accepted the second-place trophy in the state for the local parliamentary team which had competed against 340 other chapters throughout November and December. This marked the highest achievement in parliamentary procedure contest that the Miami Trace chapter has ever reached.

Jeff Schlichter was recognized as one of three state winners in the area of beef production. Schlichter's FFA beef project included the management of a 25-head cow-and-calf operation plus feeder calf production.

Highlighting the Friday evening session was the recognition given to Ohio's top 20 FFA chapters. On March 1, 1975, 340 FFA chapters and 21,339 FFA members from across Ohio started competing against each other to see who would be recognized as the elite top 20 chapters in total FFA involvement. On March 1, 1976 the final applications were submitted to officials within the State Department of Agriculture Education for the top 20 rating.

Judging was based on the total chapter involvement in the areas of occupational experience programs of the members, Community service projects, cooperation between members and individuals or groups within the community, earnings and savings projects, public relations campaigns, conduct of meetings, organized recreational activities, activities of the alumni affiliate, leadership activities and ways used to increase members scholastic achievement.

Placing as the first FFA chapter in Ohio for the third consecutive year was the Big Walnut FFA from Sunbury. Finishing second was the Marysville FFA; in third place was the Ridgedale FFA from Morral.

Ranking fourth and placing the highest the chapter has ever achieved in state competition was the Miami Trace FFA. This marked the fourth year in a row that the local FFA members had rated in the top 10 chapters in Ohio. Officials from the State Department of Education said, "The top five chapter placings were extremely close," and congratulated the 136 chapter members from Miami Trace for their high ranking.

On Saturday morning awards were presented to individuals who had achieved high placings in the 53rd state FFA judging contest held at Columbus. The Miami Trace dairy products team consisting of Sam Grooms, Fred Melvin and Sandy Beekman placed eighth of 82 teams and received a plaque. Grooms was the fourth high individual and Melvin ranked ninth out of 263 individuals, each receiving trophies.

The lumber judging team consisting of Don Davis, Ross Brown and Beth Jenks placed fourth out of 19 teams and received a banner. The meat judging team placed 23rd out of 145 teams. Team members were Sue Mitchell, Terri Hidy and Jay Pendleton. Placing second in Ohio out of 231 teams was the general livestock team consisting of Jim McCoy, Chris and Joe Garland. Jim McCoy was the fifth high individual out of 693 individuals and received a trophy.

Jay Pendleton who served as the Miami Trace chapter secretary for the past year was recognized as the top secretary in Ohio. During the past year Miss Pendleton topped 340 other entrants and received a special trophy for her efforts.

Highlighting the Saturday evening session was the awarding of the coveted State FFA Degree to six members of the Miami Trace FFA. The state degree is the highest degree that the state association can bestow upon a member and goes to only the top two per cent of the FFA members in Ohio. Out of 340 FFA chapters in Ohio only one chapter had more state degree recipients than Miami Trace.

Those individuals receiving the State Degree, with their parents in attendance, included Don Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis; Sam Grooms, son of Mrs. Janet Grooms; Randy Beekman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Beekman; Chris Garland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garland; Ken Moon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Moon; and Jeff Wilt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wilt.

Local FFA members were part of the state band and chorus which performed on Friday and Saturday. Participating were band members Ken Moon and Joel Eltzroth, and Chorus members Sue Mitchell and Beth Jenks. Representing the Miami Trace chapter during the business sessions as voting delegates were past president Jim McCoy and president Chris Garland.

Other guests of the FFA were Richard Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schlichter, Miami Trace Principal and Mrs. Curtis Fleisher, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jenks, Gerald Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Reid, Mrs. Robert Ritter, Mrs. Marjorie Baughn and advisors William Diley and Charles Andrews.

Customers paying for utility excess?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Energy crisis or not, some Ohio utilities appear to have overbuilt, and their customers are footing the bill, say two members of the Public Utility Commission of Ohio.

David C. Sweet and fellow commissioner Sally W. Bloomfield have sent a letter to the chairman of the state House-Senate Conference Committee considering new utility rate legislation pointing out the excess capacity.

Sweet released figures compiled by the utilities commission staff that show that Dayton Power & Light Co. customers paid at least $32.5 million in 1975 to support generating capacity not needed by the company.

Sweet said the figures, based on information filed by DP&L with the state Power Siting Commission, show that the utility had an available electric generating capacity of 2,551 megawatts in 1975. But its peak demand was only 1,705 megawatts or 76 per cent, which even with a 10 per cent reserve margin leaves DP&L with 23 per cent excess capacity, Sweet said. He said that excess cost consumers at least $32.5 million.

DP&L had the highest excess per cent of the electric companies examined by the commission, Sweet said. Others were Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. with an excess of 12 per cent and Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. with an excess of 13 per cent.

A spokesman for DP&L said the excess capacity resulted from unique circumstances beyond the company's control, such as the Arab Oil embargo which threw off previously reliable growth estimates by increasing costs and cutting demand. He said the company was cutting back on construction.

However in testimony before the commission last week, DP&L President Robert E. Frazier said that the company needs additional revenue to build new facilities to meet the energy demands of the 1980s.

He said the figures could damage DP&L's $30.3 million rate hike request now pending before the commission. Sweet said he will meet with the commission staff Wednesday to see whether the commission can reduce a rate request because of excess generating capacity.

Our America

A FRONTIER HANGING

by Harold Hower

When the law of early Cleveland existed principally in the muscular frame and the ready rifle of Major Lorenzo Carter, John O'Mic, an Ottawa Indian, was convicted of murder and hanged. His grisly execution survives in accounts of many early settlers of Cleveland.

O'Mic, a muscular young Indian, was arrested together with two other Indians for having robbed and killed two trappers, Buel and Gibbs, while they slept on April 3, 1812, near the city of Sandusky.

Of the three Indians, one committed suicide, and one was let go. Only O'Mic was returned to Cleveland to stand trial.

All eighteen families of Cleveland witnessed the trial, held under the shade of a tree at the corner of Superior and Water Streets. The trial was of short duration. The defendant was found guilty, and he was sentenced to be hanged on June 26.

While he awaited his execution, O'Mic was chained to the rafters in Major Carter's loft, the only makeshift jail available in the town. He bragged several times to Carter and to Sheriff Baldwin that he would show the white people how a brave Indian died. He claimed that he would need no hood over his head, that he didn't want his hands tied, for he would jump to his death from the gallows rather than being dropped through a trap door.

On the day of the trial O'Mic decorated himself with paint and donned his eagle feathers. When he was led from the loft to the wagon pulled by a single horse, he leaped onto his own coffin and surveyed the people with disdain.

He seemed to enjoy being the center of attention during the religious service conducted in an open field near Carter's house. The Reverend Mr. Darrow of Vienna, Trumbull County, conducted the ceremony.

When the wagon, accompanied by a squad of militia, reached the scaffold, Sheriff Baldwin and Major Carter escorted O'Mic up the steps of the platform. His arms were loosely tied behind him and a rope with a noose in it was placed around his neck. The platform was cleared for the execution.

Suddenly O'Mic became insane with terror. Struggling fiercely, he reached one of the supporting posts on the scaffold, wrapped his arms around the post and wouldn't let go.

Sheriff Baldwin tried to pry him loose, but could not. He was nearly pushed to the ground by the struggling O'Mic.

Carter, who knew the language of the Ottawas, came up and spoke to O'Mic. He tried to persuade him to be brave and to go through with the execution in a dignified way. O'Mic asked for a half pint of whiskey before he would go through with it. Carter got him a tumbler full of "Old Monongehela," which the Indian drank in a single gulp.

The hanging was then recommenced, but again O'Mic in terror grappled the side post. And again Carter came upon the scaffold. After some negotiating, Carter got O'Mic to pledge that he would die bravely — after one more glass of whiskey. The whiskey was brought. But this time when the glass was held to O'Mic's lips, the rope was tightened around his wrists. Another rope was tied around his body and hitched to a post so that he could not move from this position.

Then the platform was cleared again, and the trap door dropped out from under O'Mic. He swang for several minutes, but did not seem to die. A great storm suddenly rolled up off the lake. Anxious to end the grisly affair, several men lifted O'Mic's body up to the platform and dropped it again, hoping to break his neck. But the rope broke instead, and he fell directly to the ground. He lay there writhing, either in his death agony or drunk — no one knew for sure.

But in the driving rain they placed him in his coffin anyway and quickly buried him.

According to stories and accounts from several witnesses, the body supposedly disappeared. And there are three explanations — that O'Mic's strong religion caused him to be resurrected, that, still alive, he escaped from his grave, and that several doctors stole the body and used it for dissecting purposes.

The skeleton supposedly remained for a long while in the possession of Dr. Long, and later it was said to be in Hudson with a Dr. Town.

VICTORY CELEBRATION — The Miami Trace Panthers won their first track championship ever Saturday after an exciting mile relay event. Bill Warnock is mobbed by teammates (left) after his anchor winning run in the meets final event that gave the Panthers the trophy. After coach Bill Beatty accepted the first-place award, he sent his Panthers on a victory lap around the Unioto track (right).

Relay meet decided in final race

Trace wins 1st championship

By PHIL LEWIS
CHILLICOTHE — Bill Beatty said Saturday's Unioto Relays would be a three team race between his Miami Trace Panthers, Adena and Hillsboro, and he was absolutely right.
After seven hours of running, throwing and jumping the ninth annual Sherman Relays was decided on the last race. Beatty had hoped his Panthers "could sneak in the back door" at the meet, but Miami Trace came right in the front.
Miami Trace had 51 points going into the traditional final event, the mile relay. Hillsboro was a half point behind and Adena was two back with 49 points. Even with the public address announcer broadcasting the situation, it wasn't hard to figure that the meet would end to one event.
All three mile relay teams were in the second heat, and it took a school-record shattering time of 3:35.6 to give Miami Trace their first championship track trophy.
Dave Ritenour ran the first leg for the Panthers and he shared the lead after the first quarter mile. Bruce

Ervin took the baton on the second leg, and he opened up a slight lead over Hillsboro. By the time Greg Cobb took Ervin's handoff it was a two team race between the Panthers and Hillsboro. Adena, it seemed, would have to settle for third.
Cobb maintained the slight lead and handed to anchorman Bill Warnock. Hillsboro's Rick Kelch was anchoring the Indians team. Warnock, last year's South Central Ohio League quarter-mile champion, couldn't shake the determined Kelch until the final 50 yards. Warnock won by nearly two seconds giving the Panther relay team a school record, four seconds off a 1972 mark.
"He left little doubt that he is the best 440 man around," Beatty said after Warnock's anchor run was clocked in :51.5, over a second better than his school record setting time last season. Beatty, who coached Hillsboro up until last year, said although Kelch sets few records individually he is one of the finest relay runners he has seen. "When he (Kelch) gets a baton in his hand, he's a different runner," Beatty said. "He gets kind of emotional about it."

Kelch let his emotions show a little too much for the officials' liking after his second place finish to Miami Trace. The Indian speedster tossed the baton in disgust and Hillsboro was disqualified giving Adena the runnerup trophy.
While the three-way fight for first was going on Washington C.H. was picking up points to finish behind the top three with 40 points. The Blue Lions tied Greenfield McClain for the fourth-place spot.
"When we don't need much depth, like in relays with a lot of teams, we do alright," Blue Lion coach Rick Crooks said.
Washington C.H.'s high finish was mainly due to the efforts of speedsters Joe Cox, Ed DeWees, Mark Forsythe and Greg Greene. The four combined for a first-place finish in the 440 relay and a second in the half-mile relay. Cox won the 100 while Forsythe and DeWees picked up points in the field portion of the meet which was scored as individual events.
Miami Trace got off to a good start in the field events with Dan Gifford and Art Schlichter placing one, two in the high jump. Gifford's leap of 6'3 1/4" was only one-half inch off the meet record. Ralph Fast picked up points in both the shot and discus taking fifth in both events. It was his best throws of the season.
Rod Garringer picked up a third in the pole vault while Frank Dunn placed fifth behind Cox (first) and Forsythe (third) in the 100-yard dash.
Beatty figured the Panthers would have to win three possibly four of the relay races to have a shot at the first place trophy. The Panthers won three, and it was enough.

Miami Trace's first win came in the sprint medley relay. Greg Cobb ran the opening 220 before handing off to Dean Faris for a 110-yard leg. Warnock followed with a quarter mile and Bill Hanners anchored the half-mile leg. Hanners stayed right with Hillsboro's Tyler Woods until the home stretch and broke the tape first to give the Panthers a two-tenths of a second win.
The Panthers followed with a win in the distance medley which consists of a half mile, a 220, a quarter mile and a mile. Ross Brown ran the first leg followed by Ervin and Ritenour, but it was Terry Rodgers' anchor mile that gave Miami Trace an easy win. That win put the Panthers into the point-total lead. However, Adena took over first place with a second-place finish to Washington C.H. in quarter-mile relay.
The shuttle hurdle relay followed and Hillsboro placed second to host team Unioto in the event. Miami Trace took fourth and Adena took fifth setting up the final event.
It was Miami Trace's first championship track trophy ever. Beatty searched all of the trophy cases at the school after the Panthers trophy winning second-place finish in the Unioto Metric the previous Saturday. "I found a lot of basketball trophies, but no track," Beatty reported.
The Panthers will return to track action Thursday with a dual meet at Jamestown. Washington C.H. will travel to East Clinton Tuesday for a quadrangle meet.

ONE OF MANY — Washington C.H.'s Jim Donahue hands the baton to Bret Ritenour in Saturday's distance relay. The handoff was one of many on the Unioto track during the Sherman's ninth annual relay meet.

Cavs pace Washington

By The Associated Press
The Cleveland Cavaliers, dancing their way through the National Basketball Association playoffs, are doing the hustle the way it is supposed to be done.
And if they keep it up tonight, they'll hustle high-powered Washington right off the court and step into the semi-finals.
The Cavaliers, in the playoff for the first time in their six-year history, lead the Bulls 3-2 in the best-of-seven series, thanks to dashing Dick Snyder, who ran into foul trouble but still managed to run up 26 points in Cleveland's fifth-game victory Thursday night, a 92-91 squeaker.
In Sunday's two playoffs, Buffalo beat Boston 98-93 for its first victory in three games against the Celtics and Seattle stayed alive with a 114-108 victory over Phoenix.

Emotion-packed meet leads to disqualification

Officials in any sport are ridiculed, cussed, threatened, etc. for their controversial decisions; even their non-controversial decisions.
Saturday at the Unioto Relays an officials made a controversial decision. I am not going to ridicule (well maybe a bit), curse, threaten, etc. that official for his decision, but I am going to state that it was a poor one.
The decision was to disqualify Hillsboro's mile relay team after the final race of the day. Hillsboro had just placed second in the race to Miami Trace giving the Panthers' the first-place trophy and the Indians the second-place trophy.
The Hillsboro anchorman was breathing heavy after the race. He walked a few yards with his hands on hips and then tossed the baton to the side in disgust.
An alert judge saw the actions and deemed them to be unsportsmanlike disqualifying the Indian relay team. It meant more than a mere loss of points to the runnerup Indians. It meant the second-place trophy which was awarded to Adena.
Miami Trace, Hillsboro and Adena were within two points of each other. The way the three teams finished in the final race would be the way the three finished in the meet.
It was broadcast over the public address system adding excitement to the meet. The P.A. announcer kept broadcasting the situation during the entire race.
Picture a runner, who is caught up in this emotion. One who finds himself two strides behind the leader at the handoff. He knows he must finish in front of that runner or his team loses the championship. People are yelling and cheering. The P.A. announcer is blasting away. The runner also knows he is two strides behind the fastest quarter miler in the district.
The runner gives it everything he's got especially down the home stretch, but it is not enough. He finishes second just as the P.A. announcer calls Miami Trace the winner. The Panther runner is mobbed by teammates. The other runner takes a few few steps and discards his baton with a quick flip.
The rules say the runner and his team should be disqualified. Relay runners are not allowed to throw a baton "in an unsportsmanlike manner." The official deemed the runners actions as unsportsmanlike. It was a judgement call. The main reason for the rule, I presume, is to guard against injury to a bystander.
I saw the runner. His actions didn't seem unsportsmanlike to me. I viewed it as a release of honest emotion, just like the winner hugging his teammates. The runner did not hit anyone with his toss, nor would it have hurt anyone if he had.
Track is an emotional sport. If you don't want to see the agony of defeat along with the thrill of victory, lets program robots to run races let them finish, and get on the bus.
The most unsportsmanlike action of the day was awarding Adena a track trophy it didn't deserve.

Reds hurler tosses shutout

Gullett tops Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Lefthander Don Gullett complained that his fastball was lacking, but the stuff he had was good enough to stifle the Expos for six innings as the Cincinnati Reds humbled Montreal 7-0 Sunday.

"It gives me confidence that I can go out there without my real good stuff and still pitch a decent game," said Gullett, 1-0, after giving up five hits in his first start and second appearance of the year.

"I'll be better when my fastball comes around. I went down to the bullpen afterwards to work on it and threw about 20 pitches, about another inning's worth."

Pat Darcy, a right-hander, checked the Expos on two hits through the last three innings to record his first save and share the shutout.

Gullett missed two months of last season with a broken thumb suffered in a game against Atlanta Braves, and the time on the disabled list probably cost him his first 20-victory season. He returned to the lineup Aug. 18 and ended up at 15-4 for a .789 winning percentage that led the league.

"I wasn't really consistent with my fastball the way I wanted," Gullett said after the Reds beat the Expos for the second straight day to win a three-game series. "I had good location, though, and that's what I was happy about—that and some good off-speed stuff."

Manager Sparky Anderson was less enthusiastic, saying: "He didn't have anything. He was throwing some breaking stuff, but the big thing is he went six."

Montreal had a base runner in each inning, but only one got past second. Pete Macknin slammed a one-out double and moved to third on a wild pitch in the fourth before he was stranded.

Cincinnati got home runs from Johnny Bench and Dave Concepcion, the later's a two-run shot in the fourth inning. Ken Griffey drove in two runs with a double and single, while Joe Morgan had a run-scoring double and Bench rapped an RBI single.

Steve Renko, 0-1, made his first start of the year for Montreal and was unimpressive, leaving after surrendering eight hits, including both Reds homers, in five innings. Don Stanhouse, who gave up the final Cincinnati run, and Dale Murray went two innings each in relief.

John Candelaria was in midseason form. He went a solid nine innings. Candelaria, Pittsburgh's rangy young left-hander, stifled San Francisco on a measly two hits Sunday and — surprising even himself — shut out the Giants 3-0.

In Sunday's other National League games, New York beat Houston 4-2, St. Louis stifled San Diego 3-1, Atlanta edged Philadelphia 4-3 and Los Angeles defeated Chicago 5-4 in 10 innings.

Candelaria gave up only one legitimate hit, Willie Montanez' double in the fifth inning. The other was a first-inning fluke, when shortstop Frank Taveras lost Bobby Murcer's pop-up in the sun.

"Montanez hit a good pitch, a fastball inside," Candelaria conceded. And he admitted he didn't expect to be around at the end of the game. "I was surprised I could go nine. The cool weather at Candlestick helped."

The Pirates gave him all the help he needed with six hits and three runs in the fifth inning, starting with Willie Stargell's third homer of the year.

Mets 4, Asos 2

Houston's Joe Niekro wildpitched home New York's tiebreaking run in the eighth inning and Ron Hodges singled for another one, then Ken Sanders' who had replaced Mets' starter Jon Matlack in the seventh, made the runs stand up.

Cards 3, Padres 1

Willie Crawford drove in two runs for the Cardinals with a homer and a sacrifice fly, and John Curtis struggled through nine innings by scattering 10 San Diego hits for his first victory of the season.

St. Louis scored in the second when left fielder Johnny Grubb dropped Reggie Smith's fly ball for a three-base error and Crawford hit his fly ball. In the fifth, Crawford homered, Ron Fairly walked Don Kessinger doubled, Mike Ivie homered in the ninth for the Padres.

Braves 3, Phillies 2

Atlanta's Dave May hadn't had a hit all year — until Larry Cristenson tried to slip one too many fastballs past him. The results was a two-run homer in the sixth inning that beat the Phils.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 4

Los Angeles put together its first two-game winning streak of the young season — and it took an unearned run in the 10th inning to get it.

Ted Sizemore was safe when first baseman Andre Thornton juggled a throw by shortstop Dave Rosello. John Hale bunted him to second and he scored on Ron Cey's single to center field. Henry Cruz hit his first major league homer for the Dodgers, a three-run shot.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Walter's acceptance of a contract reportedly paying her $1 million a year for five years to leave NBC and co-anchor the "ABC Evening News" and do other ABC projects is now overshadowed by a more interesting story.

Scott Mott, a 6-year-old, was offered $300,000 a year for 10 years to anchor the evening "Action News" program of WWWW-TV in Bumfudgeon, Fla.

If he takes the job, he'll not only be the first 6-year-old to anchor an evening news program in a minor market, he'll also be the highest-paid 6-year-old in the history of television news.

"Variety," the show-biz bible, summed it all up in a headline: "Mott Tot Hot."

Welby Tidball, the new general manager of WWWW-TV, declined to comment on what money was offered the Mott tot. "All I can say is that it's a substantial offer," he said.

The lad, who gained overnight stardom with an exclusive interview of Mason Reese, wasn't available for interviews. His secretary said he was out playing marbles and wouldn't be back this week.

The youth is being represented in talks with WWWW by two agents from the Monster Child Agency, a talent firm that represents top child stars as well as news personalities below the legal age.

Jack "Swift" Sprat, one of the agents, said he couldn't comment on the reported offer of WWWW to his client.

"I don't think it'd be appropriate or fair to Scott," he also declined to say if the Calvin Coolidge Elementary School, where Mott is finishing his first year, had offered to match WWWW's offer.

But a school spokesman said it's unlikely that would happen. "All we have to offer is peanut butter, books and recess," he quipped.

"All this talk about money is academic," grumbled WWWW's Tidball. "Scott Mott is a proven name, an anchorman you can trust. We feel people will believe what he says."

"And," he chuckled, "he might even boost our ratings. Don't forget also that anchor salaries right now are only a small percentage of our total operating overhead for news."

Tidball was asked why the station didn't reduce Mott's salary to, say $100,000 and use the remaining $200,000 to hire more reporters and cameramen to actually go out and cover the news.

"That's also academic," he said. "If Scotty accepts our offer, we'll have to let go all our reporters and cameramen to pay him."

That doesn't make sense, he was told. "Yes, but blame it on the market place," he said. "Sure, salaries are high, but you have to pay to get the best talent."

A footnote: Shortly after this was written, young Scott Mott accepted the $300,000-a-year offer and made his debut as anchorman of WWWW's evening "Action News" program.

He seemed unusually poised for a 6-year-old. The only sign of nervousness came midway in the show, when he broke down, started crying and began a story on Angola by shouting, "I want my Mommy!"

In East Monroe community

Greenfield resident charged in shooting

HILLSBORO — A Greenfield man has been charged with felonious assault following a shooting incident early Saturday in the East Monroe community in Highland County.

Carl B. Simmons, of Greenfield, has been charged with felonious assault in connection with a gunshot wound suffered by Phillip Ravenscraft, 21, of Greenfield, following a family quarrel.

Ravenscraft was treated and later released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital in Washington C.H. for the gunshot wound in his right calf. Bond for Simmons was set at $10,000 on the felonious assault charge after he appeared Monday morning in Hillsboro Municipal Court.

Simmons is being held in Highland County jail in lieu of bond.

The shooting incident occurred at 3 a.m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. Idabella Simmons in the East Monroe community, four miles west of Greenfield.

Mrs. Simmons is the ex-wife of the felonious assault suspect.

Highland County sheriff's deputies said that Mrs. Simmons reported that Simmons had entered her home and assaulted her shortly before 2 a.m. Saturday.

The domestic quarrel continued until Ravenscraft arrived at the home with the couple's daughter, Melinda Simmons at about 2 a.m. Saturday, according to the report.

Sheriff's deputies reported that, according to Mrs. Simmons, her ex-husband left the premises, but returned approximately one hour later.

At that time, Ravenscraft, who was outside the home, said he heard what he believed to be gunshots and was hit in the leg with a slug from a .22-caliber weapon.

Simmons, who was driving a pickup truck, was apprehended by Greenfield police officer Roger Poole at the intersection of Sixth and South streets in Greenfield 20 minutes later.

Walter Matthau has heart surgery

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor Walter Matthau was listed in satisfactory condition at a hospital here after undergoing a successful "by-pass procedure" heart operation.

Doctors at Daniel Freeman Hospital described the operation Saturday night as elective rather than emergency surgery.

Matthau, 52, stars in the current movie "Bad News Bears." A spokesman said he was expected to recover in time to begin work on a new film scheduled for production in early summer.

Red China uninterested in U.S. arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — China is not interested in buying U.S. weapons or forming any defense alliance with the United States, according to a congressional delegation just back from a week-long visit to China.

The group did not meet with Hua Kuo-feng, the new premier, but conferred for 90 minutes with Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao and Foreign Minister Shiao Kuan Hua.

"They were not interested in a formal defense association with the United States," Rep. William Randall, D-Mo., said Sunday night. "They expressed no interest in acquiring either U.S. weapons or military technology."

In a telephone interview he said the Chinese believe they have "irreconcilable differences with Russia" and he added that officials stressed their determination to be "independent and self-reliant."

The delegation, led by Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., returned Sunday from a trip undertaken at the invitation of the Chinese. Nine members of the House Armed Services and International Relations committees made the journey.

U.S. officials have speculated about giving military aid to China, former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger revealed recently, but never went beyond the speculative stage.

Schlesinger and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, generally regarded as the Senate's foremost authority on China, have said that military aid to China should not be rejected "out of hand."

Coins stolen from gun show tables

Two reported larcenies in which valuable coins were stolen in each case occurred Saturday during the monthly gun show and flea market held on the Fayette County Fairgrounds. Eight other non-related incidents were investigated over the weekend by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Sometime around 10 a.m. Saturday, approximately 200 coins, valued at $300, were reported stolen from a booth occupied by Fredrick E. Blair, 45, of Pickerington, in the Mahan Building. Blair had left briefly to eat, and upon returning, discovered the items missing.

Later that day, between the hours of 12 noon and 1 p.m., various 50-cent pieces worth $272 were allegedly stolen from another booth in the Mahan Building. The coins belonged to Sherman D. Steele, 71, of Cincinnati. A trumpet, guitar, and sewing machine, all valued at $400 were reported stolen from the home of Charles R. Roark, 794 Knollwood Circle, sometime between 7 p.m. Friday and 9 p.m. Saturday while he was away. The house had been entered by unknown subjects, and exited through a rear sliding door.

Robert Reed, 3882 Old Springfield Road, told sheriff's deputies that a $50 automatic transmission was stolen from his front yard sometime last week.

A lawn mower was reportedly stolen sometime between 8 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. Saturday from the front yard of Walter Dean, Worthington Road.

James M. Reno, 20, of 2484 CCC Highway-E, told sheriff's deputies that four wheel rims were stolen from his car as it was parked in the Bowland Lanes parking lot between 9:20 and 9:35 Sunday.

A mailbox and name plate belonging to Mary Harper, 1377 Mount Olive Rd., was reported stolen sometime during Friday night.

A window on a car belonging to Emmanuel Jemminson, Baltimore, Md., was broken in an apparent attempt to gain entry and steal a citizen's band radio within. The incident occurred in Garner's Union 76 parking lot between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Washington C.H. police officers reported incidents of assault, burglary and vandalism over the week end.

Judy L. Webb, 228 Water St., was treated and released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital after she was involved in a domestic altercation in front of the Emerald Inn at 12:10 a.m. Saturday. She stated that she had been struck four or five times.

Returning from work, John Ellerbe, 322 Broadway St., told police officers that a $99 television set had been stolen from his house sometime between 5 p.m. Saturday and 3:17 a.m. Sunday.

William Carter, 113 N. Oakland Ave. told police officers he found a rock lodged in a garage window and $10 worth of damage done to the glass structure. The incident is believed to have occurred last week.

Cleveland musical group records 'Porgy and Bess'

CLEVELAND (AP) — In an era when even opera companies in America don't record operas, the Cleveland Orchestra and Chorus has done so.

London Records has just released the Cleveland recording of the George Gershwin opera, "Porgy and Bess."

Operas are rarely recorded in the United States because of the cost. Even if a record company has a great American singer in its stable, the opera recording is almost always done in Europe.

The last opera recorded in the United States was the Leonard Bernstein "Carmen" three years ago, and over the last years there has been a total of perhaps four.

So how did Cleveland do it? In part by working fast, holding down costs, and in part because its previous Gershwin works under conductor Lorin Maazel have done well for London Records.

Besides, the chorus sings for nothing; the members are volunteers.

Maazel has been conducting a good bit of Gershwin and liked the idea. There had never been a complete "Porgy and Bess" recorded. This three-record version is complete.

One of the measures that might be called cost-effective was the production last summer of "Porgy and Bess" at nearby Blossom Music Center, a suburban outdoor facility between Cleveland and Akron that seats thousands and draws top-name touring performances. In effect, it was a rehearsal for the recording sessions.

Solons hope to end session

Utility bill pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senate-House conferees were called back into session today to make another effort to compromise on a long debated bill revising Ohio's utility rate-making formula.

It was the first development in a four-day drive to bring down the curtain on the legislature's current session, except for a three-day meeting in June to clean up final business and to act on possible gubernatorial vetoes.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, and Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, expressed confidence that the six-member conference committee can agree on the utility bill to permit final action before Thursday's adjournment.

However Riffe mentioned that if the committee fails to act by Tuesday, he would urge that the two chambers appoint a second committee of conference—the standard procedure when an initial committee deadlocks.

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, is chairman of the Senate-House panel which held three meetings last week but did little more than review provisions of the complicated bill.

The panel was named after Senate sponsors rejected House amendments as being overly favorable to utility lobbyists, and the initial deliberations indicated neither side was going to move from its position easily.

A key issue as the bill went into the committee was whether utilities should be permitted to include in their rate bases the funds already invested in construction work not completed. Sen. John T. McCormack, D-31 Euclid, the bill's chief sponsor, claims the House-inserted provision would result in the addition of millions of dollars annually to the bills of utility consumers and thereby subvert the purpose of his legislation.

McCormack, a conference committee member, said he will insist that the panel return to the Senate version. It had as its major thrust requiring utilities to build their rate base around the original cost of its plants and equipment and repealing the existing law that allows them to use current estimated replacement costs.

House conferees, including Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, fumed at McCormack's charge that the House yielded to lobby pressure in adopting the so-called "construction work in progress" amendment. McCormack has apologized for the statement.

Hinig and the others warned that the legislature, in its haste, may be moving in to restrict utility revenues to the point they will be unable to provide utility needs of Ohioans in the future.

A lobbyist for Toledo Edison Co. who has been monitoring the bill's progress, Leon Shaffer, said that to take away the existing formula allowing current replacement costs without putting back the construction work allowance would deprive electrical utilities of "nearly half" of their current rate base.

The rate base consists of those things that may be cited as cost of doing business by Ohio's telephone, electrical, and natural gas utilities when they appear before the Public Utilities Commission with a rate increase request.

Otherwise Riffe said he hoped but was not sure that the legislature can complete work by Thursday on a major bill designed to protect Ohio's homeowners from future increases in property taxes that result from inflation.

That measure was approved by the House several weeks ago but is awaiting action by the Senate Ways and Means Committee. The panel scheduled a meeting for tonight to review a subcommittee's recommendations on the measure.

Riffe said that if final legislative action is not possible this week, and it appeared unlikely due to extensive Senate amendments, the measure could be voted on when the lawmakers return for their planned session June 9 through 11.

The speaker also was uncertain whether there can be final House action this week on a controversial bill requiring lobbyists to make disclosures periodically on funds they are spending to influence legislation.

Riffe said he "didn't get a fair shake" in newspaper stories predicting the measure would fail to pass the House after being sent there by the Senate earlier this month.

The House State Government Committee scheduled hearings on the measure today and Tuesday, and the speaker said he will put it up for a floor vote this week if it emerges from the committee in time.

Riffe, reiterating that the Senate had the bill for "more than a year," said he favors a strengthening of lobby laws and added: "There's going to be a bill, if not this week, then later on this year."

Jury trials demanded

Petition circulators enter innocent pleas

By GEORGE MALEK

Four Washington C.H. residents have pleaded not guilty to election fraud and demanded jury trials.

Attorney Patrick Harkins appeared in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Monday morning to enter the pleas for his clients. Each is charged with knowingly making a false affidavit concerning the signatures on a referendum petition allegedly circulated by him.

William F. Stolzenburg, 54, of 804 Maple St., his wife Dorothy, 36, and Russell Pollard, 42, of 1335 Washington Ave., all appeared in court with their attorney.

The fourth defendant, Harold Gault, 69, of 508 Gibbs Ave., was not present. He is reportedly ill, but Harkins entered a not guilty plea on his behalf.

The defendants circulated petitions seeking a referendum vote on the former one-half percent city income tax ordinance during the latter part of March. The petitions were filed with city auditor Jack Stackhouse on March 30.

Before filing the petitions, each person circulating the document was required to sign before a notary that he had witnessed each signature on his petition.

The petition warns the circulator that the penalty for election falsification is imprisonment for up to six months and a fine of up to $1,000.

The circulator states by his notarized signature that "to the best of his knowledge and belief, each of the signatures contained thereon is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be."

After receiving the petitions, city

MORNING AFTER—Following Saturday night's spectacular fire at the Federal Chemical Co. building came a dreary "morning after." The only consolation to the destruction which was taking place Saturday was the uniqueness of soaring flames, the spectacle of the fire itself. The morning after left nothing. Firemen battled cold winds while drenching the smoldering rubble. The flames soared no more, the sky was dull gray, and the crowds had dwindled to a mere handful viewing the scarred remains. Record-Herald photographer Geoff Mavis caught the collapse of the building's front wall in the midst of Saturday's rage as well as the forlorn site the morning after.

Firemen still on scene of Saturday blaze

Fire destroys Oak St. building

By GEOFF MAVIS

Record-Herald Staff Writer

Alerted at 10:01 p.m. Saturday, Washington C.H. firemen spent all night battling a blaze that destroyed the Federal Chemical Co. building on Oak Street. Though the flames were subdued by Sunday morning, firemen still are on the scene to extinguish any recurring blazes.

Owned by a Cincinnati firm, and containing numerous bundles of tightly packed paper, the building caught fire in the back area, and by the time a pumper truck had arrived, leaping flames had already engulfed much of the structure.

Though only two firemen, Lt. William Smith, and Ron Cox, were on duty when the call came in, all the regular firemen and volunteers were summoned and lent their services throughout the critical hours of the fire.

Using approximately 2,800 feet of two and a half inch hose, and 800 feet of one and a half inch hose, firemen pumped 750 pounds of water a minute onto the burning building and surrounding structures. Water was sprayed at this pressure well into Sunday afternoon.

Because of the composition of the material inside the building, it was extremely difficult to subdue the flames within, firemen said. The tightly compacted paper bales were difficult to douse because water tended to slide off the flat surface areas.

Rainfall and a favorable wind direction helped the firefighting operations, but the fact that no adjacent wooden buildings were even slightly burned was due largely to 40 Washington C.H. firemen and volunteers who kept up constant streams of water against all areas of the building and nearby roof tops.

The vicinity of the fire was populated by a large number of spectators.

However, many area residents were present to donate their services to help the firemen. Washington C.H. police officers blockaded all streets leading to the building.

Individual members of the Jeffersonville and Good Hope fire departments rendered their firefighting abilities, while such groups as the Civil Defense unit, women's auxiliary and appreciative neighbors donated coffee and doughnuts for the firemen's benefit.

The building was completely gutted by the fire. The steel supporting structures were all melted, and the roof collapsed early in the fire's stages.

Flames flared up again late Sunday in the rear of the building, but were subdued. Members of the Washington C.H. Fire Department are expected to remain on the scene for the next few days.

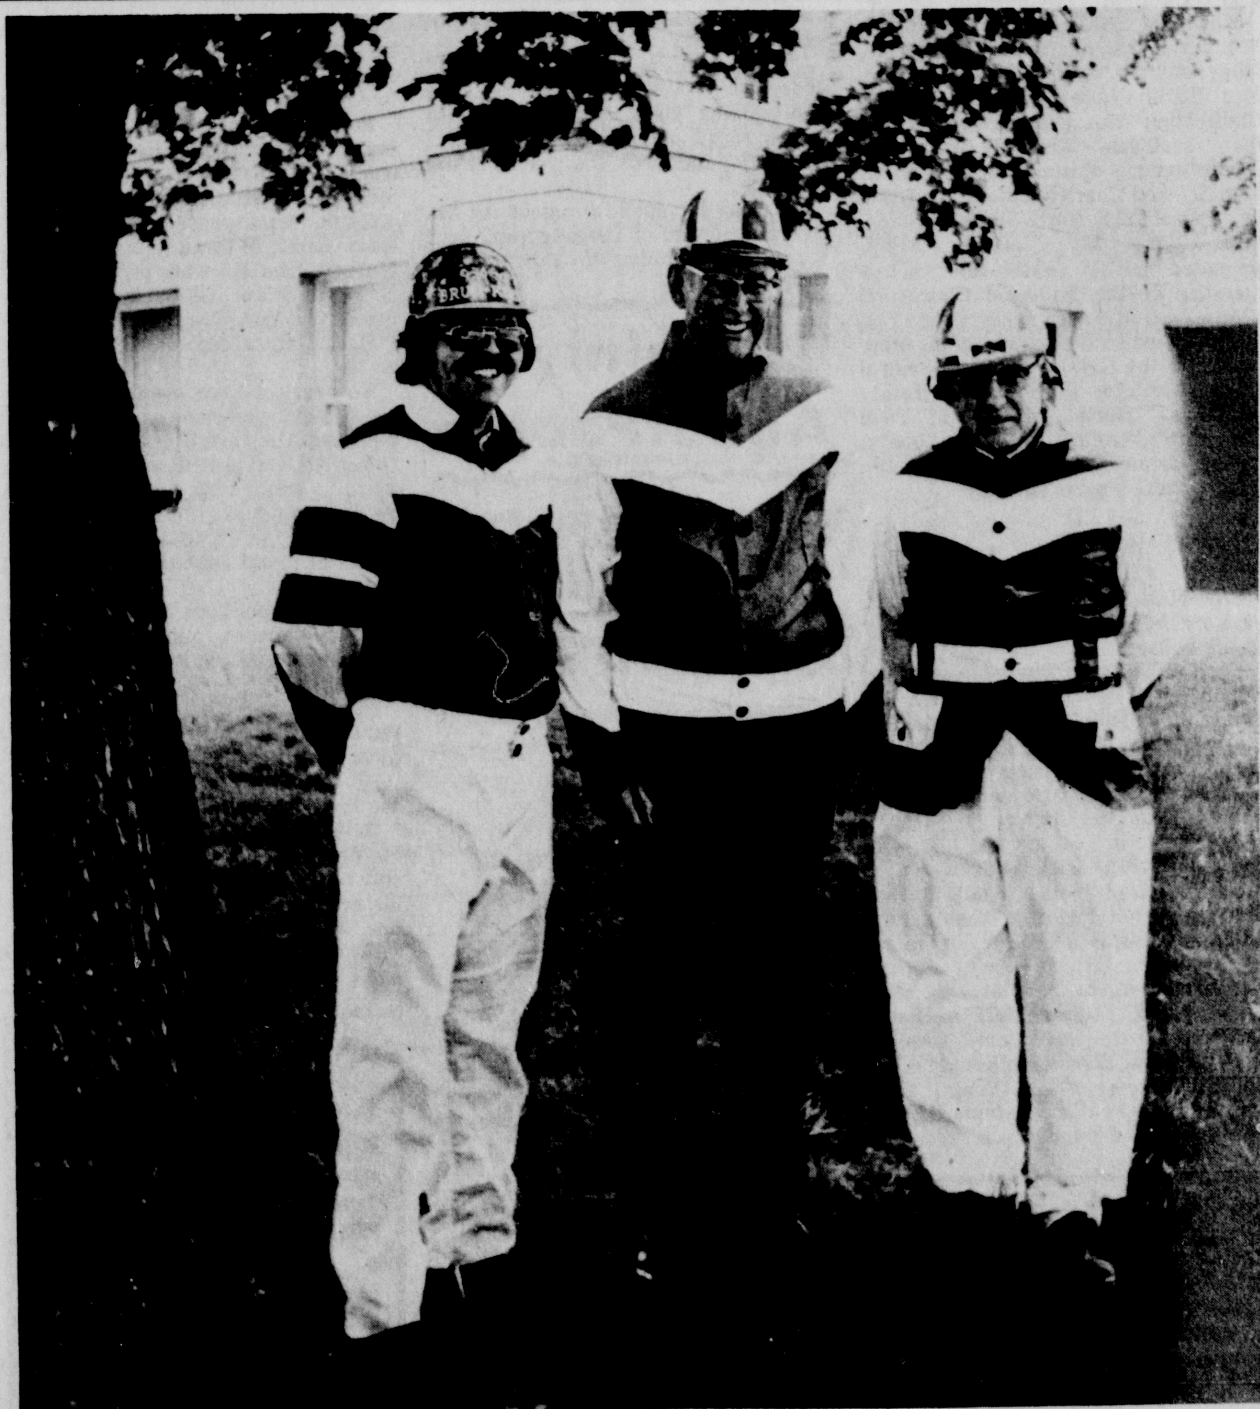

Though the cause of the fire is undetermined at present, the incident is still under investigation by firemen. No one was injured.

While firefighting operations were underway at the Oak Street building, two other fire reports were received.

A flash fire resulting from the ignition of an uncapped gasoline can next to a hot water tank summoned firemen to the home of Mrs. Rowena Manns, 1150 Lewis St., at 10:04 a.m. Sunday.

Though there was approximately $300 worth of damage to the rear porch area, the fire had burned itself out when firemen arrived. However, a dog was killed by the flash fire, and 15-year-old Lester Manns, asleep inside, had to be rescued.

An overheated gas stove was the cause of a fire in a residence occupied by Howard D. Seaman, 834 E. Paint St. The 12:16 p.m. Sunday fire was extinguished by water and caused approximately $500 worth of damage to the structure and contents of one of the rooms.

Ex-con dies after wild rampage

JACKSON, Ga. (AP) — As he forged a bloody trail through Georgia and Florida, an ex-convict snorted cocaine and bragged about his shooting and kidnap rampage that left three dead and 13 wounded. He ended the saga by killing himself, authorities say.

"When he talked about all those people being dead, he would laugh about it," said Susie Critton, a hostage who escaped unharmed. "He was smiling about it like he was glad. He had no regrets. He just kept talking and sniffing the cocaine."

Moses Pearson Jr., 31, apparently was angry at being cheated in a cocaine deal when he started the crime spree in his hometown of Jacksonville, Fla., on Saturday night, authorities said. He left two men dead there and six wounded.

Then he fled north into Georgia, killing a third man and wounding seven others.

Along the way, he abducted six women who escaped unharmed — three who drove him into Georgia and a Bay Village, Ohio, woman and her two teenage daughters, abducted on a Georgia highway.

Pearson began his rampage with three shootings within a 30-minute span in north Jacksonville, police spokesman Mike Gould said. At all three locations he demanded money.

"Robbery was at least a partial motive, but we feel there's a strong possibility of a drug tie-in in all those cases. Either he was ripped off or had been ripped off in the past," Gould said. "We know he had an argument with some of these people."

Gould said Pearson shot and killed Horace Fallen, the manager of a used car lot, in Fallen's office. Two others there were wounded. Gould said investigators believe a cocaine deal was the source of "bad blood" between Pearson and Fallen.

As authorities reconstructed Pearson's wild odyssey, he then went to a roadside wig shop where he shot and killed the manager, George Quarles, 52, who had sworn out warrants for Pearson after a robbery at the shop last week.

After wounding three persons at the nearby home of a woman who worked in the wig shop, authorities said, Pearson abandoned his car at a drive-in liquor store and abducted Mrs. Critton and Anita Cockfield, 22, and her sister Sharon, 18.

Pearson forced the women to drive him to a wooded area where he picked up a suitcase filled with money, two other guns and a change of clothes. Then they drove north to Georgia.

At a truck stop in Cordele, Ga., 170 miles north of Jacksonville, the four went inside for coffee, Mrs. Critton said. When Pearson allowed Sharon Cockfield to go to the bathroom, she managed to tell a waitress about the abduction.

When police arrived, Pearson wounded two deputies and two bystanders. The sisters escaped, but Pearson kept Mrs. Critton as he sped away.

In Pinehurst, 20 miles north of Cordele on Interstate 75, Pearson tried to rob a service station and, shooting wildly, killed attendant George Griffin Jr., authorities said. During the shooting, Mrs. Critton escaped.

A short time later, Pearson wounded another service station attendant in a robbery attempt on the highway north of Pinehurst.

Still driving north on I-75, authorities said, Pearson rammed into the rear of the car of the Leslie Janda family, heading home to Ohio after a Florida vacation. Pearson shot Janda in the arm, commandeered the car and abducted Mrs. Janda and their two teenage daughters.

"Sometimes he was nice to us," Jodee Janda, 16, said later. "But he kept talking about how it's a white man's world and a black man can't even enjoy the birds, the trees and the sunshine."

But Carl Chappell, an agent for the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, said there was "nothing to indicate any racial angle at all" for Pearson, who was black. Chappell said the victims included both blacks and whites and "it wouldn't have mattered what color you were."

Janda said he flagged down a truck driver with a citizen's band radio who called police. Police set up a roadblock at Macon, but Pearson eluded it.

Forty miles from Atlanta, in Jackson, Pearson lost control of the car and crashed.

He shot once at Mrs. Janda but missed, and she fooled him by playing dead, authorities said. Pearson then shot himself, but officers said he managed to fire a shot at them as they approached the car. Pearson was dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Kissinger says U.S. backs majority rule in Africa

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has opened his African tour with a promise that the United States will use its political and economic weapons to bring about black majority rule in southern Africa.

But Kissinger said the U.S. government "does not plan to give military aid in any form to the nationalist movements in Africa."

Kissinger met Sunday in Nairobi with President Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, then flew to Dar es Salaam to confer with President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania.

Tanzania's foreign minister, Ibrahim Kaduma, warned Kissinger that "where freedom can be obtained only through violence, we have to and must support that cause."

"To do otherwise is to betray the cause for peace."

officials reviewed the 10 separate documents and felt that at least five contained signatures which appeared questionable. Their non-professional opinion was that in several instances, the same person had signed two or more names.

Some of the petitions appeared to have only three or four questionable signatures. One had as many as 19, city officials said.

After having the petitions checked by a hand-writing expert, the majority of their suspicions were verified, one officials said.

By action Washington C.H. City Council on April 9, the city solicitor and Washington C.H. Police Department were authorized to investigate. Officers took statements from many of those who signed the petitions in question.

After their preliminary report was filed with solicitor Gary D. Smith on Friday, the four were charged and arrested. The investigation is continuing, and additional charges, are still possible. As yet, no one has been arrested for signing a name other than his own.

Although there were reportedly no grants of immunity to those who gave the police written statements, many were informed that their cooperation would be considered.

Stolzenburg, who circulated petitions March 19-26, obtained 85 signatures. The majority came from Sycamore, Maple, John and Gregg streets.

Mrs. Stolzenburg circulated petitions from March 26 through March 29. She had 52 signatures, mostly from the areas of Third, Fifth, Sixth and Sycamore streets.

Pollard obtained 44 signatures between March 22-27. His came mainly from the Campbell, Willard and McLean street areas.

Gault, who passed petitions only from March 26 through March 29, had 56 signatures. His were primarily from N. North Street, Gibbs Avenue, Paint Street and Broadway.

Each petition was notarized March 29 or 30.

No charges have been filed against six other persons who circulated petitions. They are Homer Penwell, 230 Green St., David R. Roe, 437 W. Circle Ave.; Jerry M. Sparks, 1616 Washington Ave.; Charles F. Pensyl, 613 S. Main St.; Fay J. Washburn, 715 S. North St.; and Joanne Boysel, 718 E. Paint St.

These six petitions contained a total of 313 signatures, and indications are that only three signatures have been questioned.

Nearly 50 of the 215 signatures obtained by the four persons charged have been investigated.

No date has yet been scheduled for the trials.

Acting Municipal Court Judge John P. Case presided during the initial court appearance. Municipal Court Judge Robert L. Simpson is on active duty with the U.S. Navy Reserves.

Each of the defendants is free on $500 bond.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for the food, flowers, prayers and many kindnesses shown us at the time of the death of our Father.

A special thanks to Dr. Helny, Dr. Gebhart, Margaret Clark Oakfield Convalescent Center, the Fayette Memorial Hospital and staff and the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

THE FAMILY OF
IRA CASSELL

Police said Pearson had two .38-caliber revolvers and a .22-caliber pistol on him when he was stopped. Another pistol was found at one of the service stations.

Jacksonville police said Pearson was free on $2,500 bond after his arrest April 1 on charges of impersonating a police officer.

Gould said fingerprints also linked Pearson to a robbery last week at a Jacksonville grocery store where three people were killed and one wounded.

Gould said Pearson's criminal record also included charges of breaking and entering and grand larceny. Records show he served time in jail on a 1966 federal conviction for mail theft and forging government checks.

Kissinger replied that "it is essential we deal with each other not by threats and pressures but by reason and good will."

The secretary of state told reporters in Nairobi the United States wants non-African powers to stay out of the conflict between blacks and whites in Rhodesia, South-West Africa (Namibia) and South Africa.

"We do not believe that it is helpful for outside powers to inject themselves because that could only lead to the division of Africa," he said. "The objective of the countries in Africa is that they would like to handle the problem of the evolution of southern Africa as an African problem."

Although he did not mention the Soviet and Cuban involvement in Angola and the possibility of this Communist aid being given to the Rhodesian black nationalists, that obviously was what he was talking about.

Kissinger looks to President Nyerere to play a vital role in securing negotiations for a peaceful changeover to black rule in Rhodesia. But President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia said during the weekend that 10 years of negotiations have failed and that it is too late for a peaceful solution to the Rhodesian problem.

Saturday and Sunday at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Kenneth Craig, association president, said approximately 900 exhibitors attended the two-day event. He said there were nearly 700 outdoor exhibitors before the temperatures took a sharp drop, bringing rain and gusty winds.

"On Friday and Saturday they (the exhibitors) were coming in thick and fast, but Sunday they went home," Craig said.

A total of 3,500 cars paid the 25-cent parking fee over the two-day period. So many cars entered the fairgrounds on Saturday that association officials were forced to close the front entrance. Competition for antique gun and Indian relic collectors was started again after the usual winter absence. The competition this month was for the best Winchester rifle manufactured during the 19th century.

A Dayton Ohio collector topped the field which attracted seven entries. The exhibitor won the competition with a 45-70 caliber, Model 86 rifle. The same exhibitor also placed third with a 44-40 caliber, Model 92 rifle.

A Washington C.H. man placed second with a 30-30 caliber, Model 94 Winchester rifle. Craig said both the first and second place winners exhibited lever-action rifles and both were in "mint condition."

The seven entries included the first model ever manufactured, but Craig said it was in poor condition.

The next show will be held May 22-23 at the Fayette County Fairgrounds. Craig said the competition had not yet been decided.

How long will luck hold out?

By GEORGE MALEK

Six minutes may not be a very long period of time to most of us, but it can mean the difference between life and death.

Less than six minutes of breathing hot, smoke-filled air will kill you. Even if you are receiving sufficient oxygen, super-heated air burns the lung lining and is fatal.

Try holding your breath and you'll find out how long six minutes can be.

This time period is approximately how long it took firemen to enter a home on Pearl Street Wednesday after they were summoned to a house fire.

The incident may pass quietly by because no tragedy resulted. It was eventually determined that no one was in the burning residence, and all turned out well. No one can take any credit for that. We were lucky, nothing more.

Only two firemen could be dispatched to the scene of the blaze. The kitchen was engulfed in flames when they arrived.

After borrowing the services of "civilians" to man a fire hydrant and move motorcycles, which posed a threat of explosion, one fireman opened the water supply on the truck while the other drew lines to the house.

From the outside, firemen could view the smoke-filled living room. Entry to bedrooms was blocked by the burning kitchen.

In a grand heroic gesture, a fireman could have entered the burning house. At best, this would have resulted in greater fire damage to the house. At the worst, it could cost the fireman his life.

Alone in a burning structure, the fireman is in grave danger of being overcome himself. No one is likely to know he has been felled by the smoke and heat until the damage has been done.

In the actual case, the firemen did what was most sensible. They got the water flowing and hoped no one was inside.

Six minutes later, enough help arrived for two men (volunteers) to enter the house together to search for inhabitants. Fortunately, they found no one.

In addition to a chief and an assistant chief, there are 11 firemen. They fill three shifts. There are two four-man shifts and one three-man shift. Although the firemen know three men is not really sufficient, the public seems little concerned.

At least with three men, one can operate the truck's water supply while two men enter a building with hoses. It is the barest minimum, and a long way from ideal. This still leaves no one to open windows to relieve the heat and allow smoke to escape.

Last Wednesday, however, one man on the three-man shift was on vacation. With the two men remaining, little can be done but deliver the firetruck and wait for volunteers to arrive.

One of the four-man shifts is also short-handed. A fireman injured in December has been unable to respond to fires since that time.

Although he is available to answer telephones and handle other light duty, he is under doctor's orders not to engage in firefighting.

One part of Council's effort to trim the budget was to eliminate overtime for firemen. Thus, during vacations or sickness the shift just works short-handed rather than having its vacancy filled by a regular fireman on overtime.

The dollar savings are important in light of the city's financial situation. Area citizens barely notice that the fire department is understaffed, and there is little public dissent.

The lack of funding for the Washington C.H. Fire Department may have little effect. It may not mean more than a few extra dollars damage at the scene of a fire.

On the other hand, we may just pay with someone's life.

Most state cities tax income

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thirty years after the first municipal income tax was imposed, 215 of the state's 232 cities and 174 villages rely on a local levy for government operations.

"Since 1966," the Ohio Public Expenditure Council reports, "there has been a dramatic increase in the number of Ohio cities and villages imposing a municipal income tax."

Of the 389 local tax levies in existence, the council says 244 have been enacted in the last 10 years.

Don't look for the local income tax to go away either. It is the "financial mainstay of many Ohio cities and villages," according to the council, an independent research group.

And a House Ways and Means subcommittee is studying legislation that would extend taxing powers to counties and school districts. Only municipalities have such local authority under current law.

In 1974, $471.9 million municipal income tax dollars were collected, a 10.8 per cent increase over the previous year.

"This increase exceeded the $34.4 million increase in total property taxes levied for county, township and municipal government during the corresponding period," the researchers note. Property taxes are the main source of revenue for public schools.

Local tax rates range from a low of 1/4 of 1 per cent to 2 per cent.

Fifty-five per cent of the local income tax money was generated in Ohio's 10 largest cities. Cincinnati, with a 2 per cent rate, led the way in 1974 with $57.8 million in tax revenue, the only top 10 city bringing in more than $100 per capita. Springfield also taxed at 2 per cent, but the much smaller city collected only $5.4 million.

Cleveland and Parma boasted 1 per cent rates, the lowest among big cities. Cleveland, however, was third in actual tax dollars realized with $50.2 million.

Columbus, Toledo, Akron, Canton and Youngstown all tax at 1 1/2 per cent. Dayton is at 1 3/4.

"On a statewide basis, 25 (smaller) municipalities had per capita income tax collections of $100 to $200," the council says.

"It all began 30 years ago," the watchdog tax group reported. "Toledo, in 1946, was the first Ohio municipality to levy an income tax."

Spring workshop set at Burr Oak

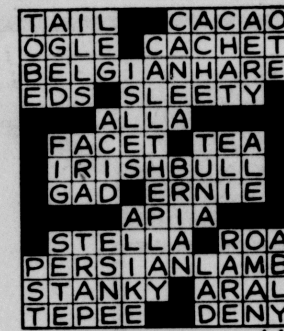

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources will conduct a spring conservation workshop at Burr Oak State Park near Athens May 14-16.

The workshop, designed to allow an exchange of ideas with department officials, will include a field trip and sessions on environmental education.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Woman irked by beau's nosy habits

DEAR ABBY: Something bothers me, and I would like your opinion and the opinion of others who have dealt with this problem.

Is it considered proper to smell food that is served to you before eating it? I am seriously considering marrying a man who does this, and I find it extremely irritating and embarrassing. He smells the food in the finest restaurants, at the home of friends and even in my home. It's not just a quick sniff—he puts his nose right down near the food and smells it thoroughly.

We are both in our late 50s and have been married before. Outside of this one fault, he is intelligent, charming and a delightful company. But I'm not sure I could sit down for three meals a day with a man who has this disgusting habit. Or am I too picky?

PICKY ME
DEAR PICKY: Diplomatically tell the gentleman that his habit bothers you and suggest that he be less obvious about it. Don't insist that he drop the habit unless you want to drop HIM. Old habits die hard.

DEAR ABBY: Dad and us kids want to get Mom a "mother's bracelet" for Mother's Day. It will have a charm with each of her children's name and birth date engraved on it.

Last year my oldest brother died, and I wonder if we should include his name and birth date. He was a very important part of our family, even though he was mentally retarded.

Do you think it would make Mom sad to have his charm on her bracelet? We don't want to make her unhappy but we don't want her to think we have forgotten him. Thank you.

MOM'S KIDS

DEAR KIDS: Include a charm for your oldest brother. I think your mom would appreciate it. You are very loving and thoughtful children to consider it.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I disagree on something and hope you can settle it.

Is it all right to tell a hostess to please put the dogs and cats out of sight during dinner?

The situation is as follows: My wife's mother has two dogs and three cats who have the run of the house. I don't mind pets if they are clean-looking and don't stay under my feet all the time. My mother-in-law's pets are always on her lap. She feeds them while she eats and serves others, which spoils my appetite.

Also, one dog is part St. Bernard, and he drools and slobbers all the time, which also isn't very appetizing. Plus the cats seem to have chronic eczema, and their visible sores turn my stomach.

My wife says Mom's pets are like her "children," and as guests, we should look the other way and not say anything.

I say, I should politely ask Mom to please put the pets in another room while we're eating.

What do you say?
WEAK STOMACH
DEAR WEAK: If your description of the pets is accurate, I'm with you all the way!

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, April 26, the 117th day of 1976. There are 249 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this day in 1607, Capt. John Smith landed at Cape Henry, Va., with the first group of colonists who would establish a permanent English settlement in America.

On this date:
In 1783, 7,000 Tories sailed from New York for Nova Scotia.

In 1785, the American naturalist and artist John James Audubon was born in Haiti.

In 1865, Abraham Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, was captured on a farm near Port Royal, Va.

In 1925, Paul von Hindenberg was elected president of Germany.

In 1954, it was announced that 900,000 American children would receive injections in a nationwide test of Salk antipoliomyelitis vaccine.

In 1964, the African nations of Tanganyika and Zanzibar merged, forming Tanzania.

Ten years ago: A sidewinder missile, launched by a U.S. jet, shot down the first Communist MIG21 of the Vietnamese war.

Five years ago: A presidential commission recommended that Communist China be admitted into the United Nations, with Nationalist China retaining its membership.

One year ago: Tens of thousands of labor union members marched and rallied in Washington, urging government action to provide more jobs.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Carol Burnett is 42. Writer Bruce Jay Friedman is 46.

Thought for today: We must not, in opening our schools to everyone, confuse the idea that all should have equal chance with the notion that all have equal endowments — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Congress acted on petitions arising from reverses in the Northern campaign. One general was advanced $200 because of a lack of money.

Washington address not genuine item

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American history sleuth, contradicting the French ambassador, says George Washington did not sign the engraved copy of his 1796 Farewell Address that France has offered as a gift to commemorate the American Bicentennial.

In fact, Washington had been dead for at least 15 years when the copy was engraved and it was not his widow, Martha, but their grandchildren who gave the document to the French Marquis de Lafayette, according to John A. Castellani, librarian of Washington's Mount Vernon estate.

A delegation from France's Senate is scheduled to present the engraving to their American Senate counterparts next month during the visit of French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

When French Ambassador Jacques Kosciesko-Morizet announced the gift in January, he said it was "signed by Washington himself and sent by Martha Washington to Lafayette." In the famous 6,000-word address, Washington exhorted his countrymen to avoid party bickering and to have "as little political connection as possible" with foreign nations.

Castellani emphasized that the engraving "is not a phony."

"It's an original for what it is. It's a very nice gift — an early 19th century engraving of George Washington's address, with a facsimile of his signature," Castellani said today. "It just is not signed by George Washington. The French government simply believed it to be something that it is not."

"It's a scarce item, with a magnificent job of calligraphy."

It was apparently done by a Philadelphia firm between 1814 to 1819, Castellani said. Two of the five artists and engravers who signed the document "weren't born until the mid-1790s, and they couldn't have worked on it when they were only one or two years old."

The U.S. Senate's curator of art and antiquities, James R. Ketchum, said the Senate is likely to welcome the gift anyway.

A great-great-grandson of Lafayette, Count Rene de Chambrun, donated the framed engraving to the French government last year. It had hung in Lafayette's mansion, La Grange, where de Chambrun lives. A French diplomat said his government did not research the document's history.

Castellani declined to estimate the engraving's value.

Senior Citizens observe birthdays at SC Center

The Senior Citizens of Delaware St. held their regular by-monthly birthday party Friday. Those who were honored had birthdays in March and April and those who had planned it had birthdays the preceding two months.

The Rev. Henry A. Simmons gave the invocation preceding the covered-dish dinner which was enjoyed by approximately 90 members. The honored guests were seated at especially appointed tables, though all tables were centered with colorful spring flowers and Fuji mums.

While everyone was being served, Mrs. Ray Underwood, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse, played appropriate background music.

Following the dinner, Miss Mary Frances Snider, the director of Senior Citizens, welcomed all. She announced that reservations for the bus trip to Holland, Mich., the Ford Museum and Lincoln Village, May 10-14, were all filled. She also announced there were a few opening left for the trip to Hawaii May 18-25. If anyone is interested, please contact Miss Snider now. Also announced was that Floyd Dowler is now residing at the home of Earl Leisure, 607 Willard St.

Members made application for their Golden Buckeye Cards issued through the Ohio Commission on Aging, and also for special courtesy cards issued by a local restaurant.

The program of the afternoon was in keeping with the Bicentennial theme, in which those who participated wore appropriate costumes. The group sang "Happy Birthday" and "The More We Get Together." A trio, composed of Emmitt Shaper, Jeff Taylor and Ted Merritt, sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "On the Banks of the Wabash," "Sweet Adeline," and "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

Marriage announced

Miss Carol Ann Spengler became the bride of Russell E. Dilly Jr., when the Rev. Ray Russell performed the marriage ceremony in First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Wayne O. Spengler, 7390 White Oak Rd., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Dilly Sr., of 7649 White Oak Rd.

Miss Spengler chose for her marriage a light rose street-length dress and she carried a single rose.

Her sister, Mrs. Jerry Bryan, served as matron of honor. She wore a light blue street-length dress and a corsage of white carnations with blue tips.

Jim Deskins served as best man for his cousin.

Both the bride and groom are seniors at Miami Trace High School. Mr. Dilly is also employed by Agricor. They are residing at 7390 White Oak Rd.

Honorary membership presented

An Honorary Membership in the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic was extended to Ms. Viva White, widow of a Civil War Veteran, and only surviving widow in this area.

The honorary membership was conferred by Mrs. Nona Stevens, president of the local Chapter 25, Mrs. Mary Black, chaplain, Mrs. Florence Toops, historian, and Miss Florence Hidy, guard.

Mrs. White is the widow of Henry P. White who was a member of Co. H., 176 OVI, in the Civil War.

Her daughter, Miss Frances White, accepted by the pledge of membership at the same time.

The local chapter is made up of some 30 members who are direct descendants of union veterans of the Civil War or connected by marriage. The original organization was formed for the relief of all sic and needy veterans or their dependants, but time has removed that aim and the group now reaches out to teach patriotism and good citizenship, and to preserve the memory of the patriots of this nation.

Mrs. Marjorie Crider presented an accordion solo. She played "Amazing Grace," "Give Me That Old Time Religion," and "I Won't Have to Cross Jordan Alone." Mrs. E. Lavern Morgan sang "Beautiful Dreamer," and "The Old Spinning Wheel." Readings presented by Mrs. Edith Scott were "Grandma Just Ain't What She Used to Be," "Mother Is a World Called Love," "What is Mother?" and "Mother's Once Were Daughters."

A medley of old songs including "Wabash Cannon Ball" and "Red Wing" were played on the mandolins by Mrs. Doris Diffendal and Mr. Loring Harrop. Mrs. Roy Underwood played on the violin "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and "And the Band Played On." Mrs. Lillit Grabill read "What Will Tomorrow Bring?" Vocal solos sung by Emmitt Shaper were "After the Ball," "In the Good Old Summer Time," and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

A harmonica solo by Mrs. Harry E. Fultz was entitled "Roll Over Jordan, Roll." Mrs. Underwood and Mrs. Diffendal presented on the violins, "Let the Rest of the World Go By," and "Moonlight and Roses."

A rhythm number by Mrs. Bertie Grabill (spoons), Ted Merritt (drums) were "Smiles," and "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover." Another instrumental number presented by Mrs. Underwood (violin), Mrs. Diffendal (mandolin), Mrs. Giebelhouse (piano), and Mrs. Harrop (banjo), included "The Old Grey Mare," "Oh Dem Golden Slippers," "Quilting Party," "Soldiers Joy," and "Turkey in the Straw."

Lioness Club to observe anniversary

The 28th anniversary will be observed by the Washington C.H. Lioness Club, when members meet at the Country Club May 4. All past presidents are invited to attend and reservations or cancellations must be made by Monday. The group received their charter in 1948.

All newly-elected officers will be installed by Richards Coates.

The social hour will be at 6:30 and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

La Leche League to meet Wednesday

The third in a series of four meetings "Good Mothering Through Breast Feeding" of La Leche League will be held Wednesday, April 28, in the home of Mrs. Jay Smith, 903 S. Hinde St., at 8 p.m. The topic for this month is "Baby Arrives: The Family and the Breastfed Baby," led by Mrs. Lynn Shoemaker.

The group is open to any mother, whether she is presently nursing her baby, plans to nurse her new baby, or is full of questions and doubts about nursing being right for her. Help with problems and questions concerning nursing may be obtained from Mrs. Shoemaker by phone (335-1037) or Mrs. JoAnne Jacobson (948-2405).

Mothers are asked to bring their baby and enjoy an evening of valuable information, good conversation and refreshments.

Mrs. Case attends Choir Festival

Mrs. John P. Case, 330 Jupiter St., spent Saturday at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Upper Arlington, attending the 12th annual Diocesan Choir Festival. Men and Women from a church choirs in the area, under the leadership of Diocesan Music Committee chairman the Rev. Raymond Sturm and choral director Ruth Morgan, rehearsed all day singing eight anthems by American composer, the earliest William Billings of colonial times, and the latest, a young man in Columbus, Randolph Currie. At 4 p.m., there was a public performance of the eight anthems at a service of choral evensong.

ARBOR DAY PLANTING — Washington Garden Club participated in the 14th annual Arbor Day planting at Miami Trace High School Friday morning at 10 a.m., when members planted a flowering cherry tree in observance of the Bicentennial year. The first presentation was made in 1962 by the garden club, and since then has been an annual event. Pictured are Mrs. Robert H. Wilson, Mrs. Gilbert Hooks, Mrs. Herbert Dawes, Mrs. Donald Meredith and Mrs. Jean T. Craig, garden club members with the Student Council officers Jay Crummy, president; Rose Evans, treasurer; Christy Tarbutton, secretary, and Vickie Patton, new reporter, along with Mr. Curtis Fleisher, principal.

TOFFEE CHIFFON PIE — A perfect dessert for special occasions.

Toffee Chiffon Pie

For a light, but oh-so-lovely finale to your springtime or summer party menus, try this tasty Toffee Chiffon Pie. The flavor surprise in this frothy dessert is the crunchy goodness of English Toffee Candy, nestled into the luscious filling to crown the top of this tempting treat.

A perfect dessert for special occasions, Toffee Chiffon Pie is easy enough to prepare that it can be served for family meals.

2 envelopes (tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
3 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup (6 ounces) chopped Heath

English Toffee candy bars
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1 envelope (2 ounces) whipped dessert topping
1 9-inch baked pastry or favorite crumb pie shell, chilled

Soften gelatin in cold water. Beat egg yolks slightly. Add 1 cup milk, brown sugar, salt; stir. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon. Add softened gelatin; stir until it melts. Blend in Vanilla and 3/4 cup candy bits. Chill until mixture starts to "set." Beat egg whites until frothy; add sugar gradually, continuing to beat until stiff and glossy. Fold into gelatin mixture. Prepare dessert topping as directed on package using remaining 1/2 cup milk. Fold into gelatin and egg white mixture. Pour into chilled crust. Sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup candy bits, or more if desired. Chill until firm.

A quick 'n easy way to chop Toffee Candy is to freeze candy bars first, then crush with blender, food grinder, grater or chopper, or wrap bars in waxed paper or cloth and crush with a rolling pin.

Socialists win vote in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Socialist party stayed on top as returns were counted today from Portugal's first free parliamentary election in 50 years, but there was no chance of its getting the majority it sought in the new 263-seat parliament.

Socialist leader Mario Soares rejected overtures from the center and right to join in a coalition government. Other influential members of his party said such a coalition was inevitable.

The election outcome opened the way for the ouster of the Moscow-line Communists from the government of this member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for the first time since the military revolution two years ago.

With about 77 per cent of Sunday's votes tallied, the Socialists had 35.21 per cent of the vote, compared with 37.9 per cent in the election of the constituent assembly last year.

The centrist Popular Democrats were in second place with 23.87 per cent, compared with 26.4 per cent last year; and the Communists had 14.97 per cent, up slightly from 12.5 per cent.

The only big gainers were the conservatives of the Social Democratic Center. They had 15.32 per cent of the votes, double their showing last year, and nosed ahead of the Communists to take third place.

This conservative gain was viewed as a backlash against the confused and ineffectual leftist provisional governments that have held office since the armed forces overthrew the Salazar-Caetano dictatorship two years ago.

The rest of the votes were scattered among 10 splinter parties. Final results were expected late today.

Francisco sa Carneiro, head of the Popular Democrats, and Diogo Freitas do Amaral, president of the Social Democratic Center, called on the Socialists to join them in a coalition. Soares rejected the center-right offer, and he also said an alliance with the Communists was out of the question. But pressure was building up within his own party to come to terms with the two other major anti-Communist parties.

Soares predicted before the election that the Socialists would get at least 42 per cent of the vote. He said if they could not govern alone, they would lead the opposition.

War planning said necessary

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — "We're in the age of the 'come-as-you-are war'," and national security demands planning now, Lt. Gen. George Rhodes told an audience here Saturday.

Speaking to members of the Dayton Chapter of the National Security Industrial association and the Wright Memorial chapter of the Air Force Association, Rhodes said the future of America demands more public awareness of the ever-expanding military and industrial strength of the Soviet Union.

The Soviets lead the United States in number of ICBMs, submarine-launched ballistic missiles, military manpower and per cent of the gross national product dedicated to defense spending, the three-star general said.

Rhodes, vice commander of Air Force Logistics, indicated that current budget trends have damaged America's military power and ability to meet the challenge of modern warfare.

Rubber negotiations to resume today

CLEVELAND (AP) — After taking the weekend off to reassess the issues, rubber industry labor negotiators headed back to the bargaining table today for renewed efforts at ending a six-day-old Rubber Workers strike against the industry's Big Four.

Meanwhile, the strike took on an international flavor, with the Japanese Rubber Workers threatening to strike and URW President Peter Bommarito meeting in Geneva with leaders of the six-million member International Federation of Chemical and General Workers Union.

The talks between URW and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. representatives were recessed Friday at the request of federal mediators, who called for reassessment of issues.

The URW has focused on Firestone as the most likely candidate for meeting pay increase demands totaling $5.50 an hour—about 42 per cent—over a three-year period, and talks with the other three major tire firms in three other cities have taken a back seat. Firestone's pay hike offer stood at $1.15 an hour over the three years. Federal mediator Gayle Weinriter said there might be new economic offers in the talks resuming this afternoon.

URW leaders say they need the big jump to catch up and keep pace with auto workers. The average pay for the 60,000 URW members covered by contracts with the Big Four of the rubber industry was estimated by the union at $9.05 an hour.

Negotiations with Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. were located in Cincinnati, B.F. Goodrich Co. in Columbus and Uniroyal Inc. in New York.

The Geneva discussions concerned plans for an international boycott of Firestone products. Chemical workers' union leaders already have pledged support for the strike against Firestone and its subsidiaries.

Boycott picketing of Firestone products is set to start May 8 if no agreement is reached before then. URW leaders say boycotts will be held in seven U.S. cities—Akron and Dayton, Ohio; Des Moines, Iowa; Memphis, Tenn.; Long Beach, Calif.; New Haven, Conn., and Pottstown, Pa.—and Toronto, Ont.

An International boycott has never been used by the URW, but union officials hope it will be an effective way of putting pressure on a multinational corporation such as Firestone.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

Continued Congressional commitment to water pollution abatement nationwide was demonstrated last week with approval by the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation of a three-year extension of the federal program to help communities clean up their rivers and streams.

The bill, which I co-sponsored, not only authorizes federal grants of more than $18 billion to state and local governments for water pollution control; it actually reforms the program to speed up construction of sewage treatment facilities.

In extending the programs of the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act through fiscal years 1978 and 1979, the legislation calls for greater state authority over the administration of the program, although federal oversight will continue. The federal share of the cost for those eligible municipal waste water treatment plant construction projects will still be 75 per cent.

Increasing the authority, responsibility and funding of state water pollution control agencies should help speed up construction of needed sewage treatment facilities, hold down costs, and strengthen control over the program at all levels of government.

The legislation would also change the formula for allocating federal funds for treatment works construction. Presently a state's needs are the only factor in determining its share of the federal funds. In combining population and needs, the committee bill represents a compromise between the all-needs formula and a far more sweeping Senate-passed provision giving greater weight to population.

Municipalities which cannot complete their secondary sewage treatment plants within the original time limit may be able to extend their deadlines from July 1, 1977, to July 1, 1982.

The Environmental Protection Agency, under the bill's provisions, will be permitted to make such extensions on a case-by-case basis.

Industries to be served by plants in these communities would also be eligible for time extensions. If a municipality is introducing innovative treatment technology, the deadline may be extended to July 1, 1983.

Besides supporting facilities construction, funds would be provided for manpower training, assistance for state program administration, planning, and the Clean Lakes program.

A controversial amendment added in committee would limit the authority of the Corps of Engineers to regulate dredge or fill activities in bodies of water now navigable or capable of being improved to serve waterborne commerce—instead of all U.S. waters as now required.

Stringent penalties will be imposed under this legislation on those found guilty of discharging hazardous substances into the nation's waters. Maximum penalties of $50,000, but up to

Capital receives major grants

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Capital University said Saturday it has received major grants from the Columbus Foundation and the Cleveland-based Martha Holden Jennings Foundation to be used toward the cost of a new university reading center. The center will offer individualized diagnosis and treatment programs for area elementary and secondary school students who have special reading problems. It also will provide inservice training for public school teachers, the university said.

The university said the $23,325 grant from the Jennings Foundation and a $13,864 gift from the Columbus Foundation will help cover the cost of equipment, furnishings and personnel for the facility scheduled to open in September.

Damage only moderate in majority of crashes

Officers probe 13 weekend mishaps

Though 13 traffic accidents were investigated over the weekend, damage was moderate in most cases. In one incident, however, a Fayette County man's car was demolished after it travelled approximately 150 feet out of control.

Mark J. Hartley, 23, of Rt. 4, was northbound on the Prairie Road when he lost control of his car on a curve about a mile north of the Bloomington-New Holland Road at 2:53 a.m. Saturday. The car travelled for 65 feet on the right berm, came back on the road and went 81 feet left of center before landing in a ditch and striking an end post. Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that the car was demolished. Hartley was not injured.

SUNDAY—, 7 p.m. — Jane R. Summers, 22, of 419 Western Ave., was northbound on Ohio 753, when she lost control of her car on a curve just south of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad Co. tracks. The car went off the left side of the road and struck a parked car belonging to Jesse A. Linton, of Good Hope. There was moderate damage to both cars, and Ms. Summers was cited for operating an unsafe vehicle.

12:15 p.m. — A trailer containing a metal building was being pulled on Ohio 41-N by a tractor driven by Carl E. Krieger, 40, of Eastview Drive, when the building slid off near the I-71 overpass. It fell into the northbound lane where it struck a car driven by Kenneth E. Blade, 29, of 664 Staunton-Jasper Road. There was severe damage to Blade's car.

3:15 a.m. — Cars driven by Shannon W. Boylan, 18, of 922 Lakeview Ave.,

and Ricky E. Lightle, 21, of Greenfield, were southbound on Ohio 41-S when Boylan's car struck Lightle's in the rear just south of Ohio 753. Moderate damage to both cars resulted, with Boylan cited for failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

SATURDAY—Sheriff's deputies reported that sometime Saturday, two rods of fence along the Beale Road, about a half mile west of the junction of CCC Highway-E were damaged by a hitskip vehicle.

POLICE

SUNDAY—5:20 p.m. — A car driven by Roger L. Haines, 25, of 159 Joanne Drive, reportedly failed to slow in enough time and struck a car stopped for traffic on W. Court Street at the junction with N. Hinde Street. The struck car was driven by Jack J. Ellis, 22, of 159 Joanne Drive, and the impact caused it to move forward and strike another car stopped for traffic driven, by Nina K. Mumme, 21, of 127 W. Elm St. There was severe damage to Haines' car, and he was later charged with failing to maintain an assured distance ahead. The other cars received slight damage.

3:58 p.m. — Exiting from Kroger's supermarket parking lot, a car driven by Renee A. Snider, 27, of 705 McArthur Way, pulled into the path of a car driven by Robert E. Williams, 16, of 604 Eastern Ave., which was northbound on Draper Street. Ms. Snider cited for failure to yield and there was slight damage to her car. Williams' car was moderately damaged.

3:58 p.m. — Jeffery L. Satterfield, 16, of Jeffersonville, told police officers that as he was eastbound on Clinton Avenue, he was unable to stop because of the wet pavement and struck a car driven by Darrell L. Upp, 24, of 912 Davis Court, in the rear. The Upp vehicle had also been eastbound on Clinton Avenue, waiting at the junction with Green Street. There was slight damage to both cars.

3:37 a.m. — Attempting to make a right turn into his driveway, a car driven by Steven Stritenberger, 18, of 623 Clinton Ave., was struck in the rear by a car driven by Carol A. Trabbil, 33, of 678 Robinson Road. Both cars had been eastbound on Clinton Avenue, and both sustained moderate damage. Ms. Trabbil was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

SATURDAY, 8:25 p.m. — A car driven by Lores F. Williams, 18, of 315 Forest St., reportedly ran a red light on Columbus Avenue, and struck a car driven by Jack G. Mosts, 35, of 419 East St., which was attempting to turn from Delaware Street onto Clinton Avenue. There was moderate damage to both cars as a result, and Williams was charged with a red light violation.

7:41 p.m. — A car driven by William T. Dennis, 16, of 1328 Meadow Drive, struck a car parked on Forest Street owned by Gary L. Long, 609 E. Temple St. The accident occurred just north of E. Market Street, and Dennis, later cited for operating an unsafe vehicle, stated that his accelerator had been stuck. Moderate damage to both cars resulted.

4:02 p.m. — Eastbound on Court Street, a car driven by Larry L. Young, 38, of Lodi, attempted to change from the center to the right lane and sideswiped a car driven by Stanford L. Sexton, 59, of Pataskala, also eastbound. The accident occurred near Circle Avenue, and both cars were moderately damaged. Young was cited for changing lanes without safety.

1:20 p.m. — A car driven by Roger L. Rhodes, 22, of Mount Sterling, was backing from a parking space in the Hidy Food store parking lot when it struck a car driven by Dorothy L. Woods, 52, of Greenfield. There was slight damage to the Woods car.

A touch of winter returned to Ohio on the heels of an intense storm that passed through the state Sunday.

Temperatures tonight are expected to plummet to the mid 20s or mid 30s, and a freeze warning is up for the entire state.

The winter-like weather will continue Tuesday as brisk northerly winds pour cold Canadian air across the state. A few flurries will fall in the northeast while partly cloudy skies prevail over the rest of the state.

Tuesday's highs will be a repeat of today's with readings in the 40s or 50s. Moderating temperatures will move in about Wednesday.

Fair Wednesday and Thursday with a chance of showers Friday. Highs Wednesday in the low 50s and lows in the 30s, warming by Friday to highs in the low 60s and lows in the low 40s.

Abuse probe hampered

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Efforts by a public interest group to investigate abuses by businesses will be seriously hampered by a funding handicap imposed by the Indiana University Board of Trustees, organization officials said.

University records show that support for the Indiana Public Interest Research Group (InPIRG) is down 50 per cent since 1973 when the school first provided students with a voluntary contribution system during registration for classes.

The board approved a new fee collection policy last December, thereby abolishing optional student contributions, because of conflict of interests, according to John Fitzgerald, chairman of the state InPIRG board of directors.

He said many trustees and IU administrators are associated with businesses under the group's critical eye.

InPIRG members said their 1973 fight against an Indiana Bell Telephone Co. rate hike request; their investigation of possible violations of the Federal Truth and Lending Act by Indiana banks and their criticism of utility company practices in 1974 contributed to the board's decision.

Bergman arrives in Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film director Ingmar Bergman, looking for a place to continue his work and his life, is in Hollywood to discuss his plans after leaving Sweden in anger.

"I improvise from day to day," Bergman said on his arrival Sunday. Asked where he will settle, he said, "All I know is I am meeting Monday with Dino De Laurentiis; I have a very good relationship with Mr. De Laurentiis." But when a woman at the airport asked, "Why don't you settle in America?" he replied, "I don't know. Perhaps tomorrow I will decide to stay."

De Laurentiis was Bergman's producer for the American release of "Face to Face," the latest in the filmmaker's explorations of human relationships.

Bergman, 57, seemed jovial and shook hands all around as he arrived here with his wife. A severe depression had settled on the director after he was charged with tax fraud by the Swedish government last January.

Bergman was cleared of the fraud charges, but his back taxes are still in question and he decided to abandon Sweden, leaving his wealth behind.

In a bitter open letter, he accused tax officials of blackmail and said he had been "attacked and humiliated by a special kind of bureaucracy that grows like a galloping cancer."

At annual state FFA convention

MT chapter ranks fourth in state

Friday and Saturday over 5,500 Future Farmers of America members, parents and guests convened at the Ohio State Fairgrounds, Columbus, to take part in the 48th annual State FFA Convention.

The convention theme for the bicentennial year was "A Future for America - FFA." It was held to honor the accomplishments of chapters and individuals who compete for the many awards that the FFA has to offer and to allow local chapter delegates to participate in the operation of running their state organization.

The first session of the convention was called to order Friday evening by Rob Hovis, State FFA president from Kansas, Ohio. Hovis presented distinguished service plaques to four local individuals who have donated to the Ohio FFA Foundation, Inc. for 10 consecutive years. The money donated to the Foundation is presented to outstanding FFA members from throughout Ohio who have achieved success in one of the various award areas.

Individuals given service plaques included J.W. Beam of Melvin Stone

Co., Sabina; David Owens of Owens Duroc Farm, Jeffersonville; Charles Andrews of Andrews and Baughn Hampshire Hogs, Bloomingburg; and Mr. William Heinz of Heinz Nu-Way Feeds, Bloomingburg.

Individual and chapter awards were then presented. Chris Garland and Jeff Wilt accepted the second-place trophy in the state for the local parliamentary team which had competed against 340 other chapters throughout November and December. This marked the highest achievement in parliamentary procedure contest that the Miami Trace chapter has ever reached.

Jeff Schlichter was recognized as one of three state winners in the area of beef production. Schlichter's FFA beef project included the management of a 25-head cow-and-calf operation plus feeder calf production.

Highlighting the Friday evening session was the recognition given to Ohio's top 20 FFA chapters. On March 1, 1975, 340 FFA chapters and 21,339 FFA members from across Ohio started competing against each other to see who would be recognized as the elite top 20 chapters in total FFA involvement. On March 1, 1976 the final applications were submitted to officials within the State Department of Agriculture Education for the top 20 rating.

Judging was based on the total chapter involvement in the areas of occupational experience, programs of the members, Community service projects, cooperation between members and individuals or groups within the community, earnings and savings projects, public relations campaigns, conduct of meetings, organized recreational activities, activities of the alumni affiliate, leadership activities and ways used to increase members scholastic achievement.

Placing as the first FFA chapter in Ohio for the third consecutive year was the Big Walnut FFA from Sunbury. Finishing second was the Marysville FFA; in third place was the Ridgedale FFA from Morral.

Ranking fourth and placing the highest the chapter has ever achieved in state competition was the Miami Trace FFA. This marked the fourth year in a row that the local FFA members had rated in the top 10 chapters in Ohio. Officials from the State Department of Education said, "The top five chapter placings were extremely close," and congratulated the 136 chapter members from Miami Trace for their high ranking.

On Saturday morning awards were presented to individuals who had achieved high placings in the 53rd state FFA judging contest held at Columbus. The Miami Trace dairy products team consisting of Sam Grooms, Fred Melvin and Sandy Beekman placed eighth of 82 teams and received a plaque. Grooms was the fourth high individual and Melvin ranked ninth out of 263 individuals, each receiving trophies.

The lumber judging team consisting of Don Davis, Ross Brown and Beth Jenks placed fourth out of 19 teams and received a banner. The meat judging team placed 23rd out of 145 teams. Team members were Sue Mitchell, Terri Hidy and Jay Pendleton. Placing second in Ohio out of 231 teams was the general livestock team consisting of Jim McCoy, Chris and Joe Garland. Jim McCoy was the fifth high individual out of 693 individuals and received a trophy.

Jay Pendleton who served as the Miami Trace chapter secretary for the past year was recognized as the top secretary in Ohio. During the past year Miss Pendleton topped 340 other entrants and received a special trophy for her efforts.

Highlighting the Saturday evening session was the awarding of the coveted State FFA Degree to six members of the Miami Trace FFA. The state degree is the highest degree that the state association can bestow upon a member and goes to only the top two per cent of the FFA members in Ohio. Out of 340 FFA chapters in Ohio only one chapter had more state degree recipients than Miami Trace.

Those individuals receiving the State Degree, with their parents in attendance, included Don Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis; Sam Grooms, son of Mrs. Janet Grooms; Randy Beekman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Beekman; Chris Garland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garland; Ken Moon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Moon; and Jeff Wilt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wilt.

Local FFA members were part of the state band and chorus which performed on Friday and Saturday. Participating were band members Ken Moon and Joel Eltzroth, and Chorus members Sue Mitchell and Beth Jenks. Representing the Miami Trace chapter during the business sessions as voting delegates were past president Jim McCoy and president Chris Garland.

Other guests of the FFA were Richard Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schlichter, Miami Trace Principal and Mrs. Curtis Fleisher, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jenks, Gerald Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Reid, Mrs. Robert Ritter, Mrs. Marjorie Baughn and advisors William Diley and Charles Andrews.

Customers paying for utility excess?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Energy crisis or not, some Ohio utilities appear to have overbuilt, and their customers are footing the bill, say two members of the Public Utility Commission of Ohio.

David C. Sweet and fellow commissioner Sally W. Bloomfield have sent a letter to the chairman of the state House-Senate Conference Committee considering new utility rate legislation pointing out the excess capacity.

Sweet released figures compiled by the utilities commission staff that show that Dayton Power & Light Co. customers paid at least $32.5 million in 1975 to support generating capacity not needed by the company.

Sweet said the figures, based on information filed by DP&L with the state Power Siting Commission, show that the utility had an available electric generating capacity of 2,551 megawatts in 1975. But its peak demand was only 1,705 megawatts or 76 per cent, which even with a 10 per cent reserve margin leaves DP&L with 23 per cent excess capacity, Sweet said. He said that excess cost consumers at least $32.5 million.

DP&L had the highest excess per cent of the electric companies examined by the commission, Sweet said. Others were Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. with an excess of 12 per cent and Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. with an excess of 13 per cent.

A spokesman for DP&L said the excess capacity resulted from unique circumstances beyond the company's control, such as the Arab Oil embargo which threw off previously reliable growth estimates by increasing costs and cutting demand. He said the company was cutting back on construction.

However in testimony before the commission last week, DP&L President Robert E. Frazier said that the company needs additional revenue to build new facilities to meet the energy demands of the 1980s.

He said the figures could damage DP&L's $30.3 million rate hike request now pending before the commission. Sweet said he will meet with the commission staff Wednesday to see whether the commission can reduce a rate request because of excess generating capacity.

Our America

A FRONTIER HANGING

by Harold Hower

When the law of early Cleveland existed principally in the muscular frame and the ready rifle of Major Lorenzo Carter, John O'Mic, an Ottawa Indian, was convicted of murder and hanged. His grisly execution survives in accounts of many early settlers of Cleveland.

O'Mic, a muscular young Indian, was arrested together with two other Indians for having robbed and killed two trappers, Buel and Gibbs, while they slept on April 3, 1812, near the city of Sandusky.

Of the three Indians, one committed suicide, and one was let go. Only O'Mic was returned to Cleveland to stand trial.

All eighteen families of Cleveland witnessed the trial, held under the shade of a tree at the corner of Superior and Water Streets. The trial was of short duration. The defendant was found guilty, and he was sentenced to be hanged on June 26.

While he awaited his execution, O'Mic was chained to the rafters in Major Carter's loft, the only makeshift jail available in the town. He bragged several times to Carter and to Sheriff Baldwin that he would show the white people how a brave Indian died. He claimed that he would need no hood over his head, that he didn't want his hands tied, for he would jump to his death from the gallows rather than being dropped through a trap door.

On the day of the trial O'Mic decorated himself with paint and donned his eagle feathers. When he was led from the loft to the wagon pulled by a single horse, he leaped onto his own coffin and surveyed the people with disdain.

He seemed to enjoy being the center of attention during the religious service conducted in an open field near Carter's house. The Reverend Mr. Darrow of Vienna, Trumbull County, conducted the ceremony.

When the wagon, accompanied by a squad of militia, reached the scaffold, Sheriff Baldwin and Major Carter escorted O'Mic up the steps of the platform. His arms were loosely tied behind him and a rope with a noose in it was placed around his neck. The platform was cleared for the execution.

Suddenly O'Mic became insane with terror. Struggling fiercely, he reached one of the supporting posts on the scaffold, wrapped his arms around the post and wouldn't let go.

Sheriff Baldwin tried to pry him loose, but could not. He was nearly pushed to the ground by the struggling O'Mic.

Carter, who knew the language of the Ottawas, came up and spoke to O'Mic. He tried to persuade him to be brave and to go through with the execution in a dignified way. O'Mic asked for a half pint of whiskey before he would go through with it. Carter got him a tumbler full of "Old Monongehela," which the Indian drank in a single gulp.

The hanging was then recommenced, but again O'Mic in terror grappled the side post. And again Carter came upon the scaffold. After some negotiating, Carter got O'Mic to pledge that he would die bravely — after one more glass of whiskey. The whiskey was brought. But this time when the glass was held to O'Mic's lips, the rope was tightened around his wrists. Another rope was tied around his body and hitched to a post so that he could not move from this position.

Then the platform was cleared again, and the trap door dropped out from under O'Mic. He swang for several minutes, but did not seem to die. A great storm suddenly rolled up off the lake. Anxious to end the grisly affair, several men lifted O'Mic's body up to the platform and dropped it again, hoping to break his neck. But the rope broke instead, and he fell directly to the ground. He lay there writhing, either in his death agony or drunk — no one knew for sure.

But in the driving rain they placed him in his coffin anyway and quickly buried him.

According to stories and accounts from several witnesses, the body supposedly disappeared. And there are three explanations — that O'Mic's strong religion caused him to be resurrected, that, still alive, he escaped from his grave, and that several doctors stole the body and used it for dissecting purposes.

The skeleton supposedly remained for a long while in the possession of Dr. Long, and later it was said to be in Hudson with a Dr. Town.

VICTORY CELEBRATION — The Miami Trace Panthers won their first track championship ever Saturday after an exciting mile relay event. Bill Warnock is mobbed by teammates (left) after his anchor winning run in the meets

Relay meet decided in final race

Trace wins 1st championship

By PHIL LEWIS
CHILLICOTHE — Bill Beatty said Saturday's Unioto Relays would be a three team race between his Miami Trace Panthers, Adena and Hillsboro, and he was absolutely right.

After seven hours of running, throwing and jumping the ninth annual Sherman Relays was decided on the last race. Beatty had hoped his Panthers "could sneak in the back door" at the meet, but Miami Trace came right in the front.

Miami Trace had 51 points going into the traditional final event, the mile relay. Hillsboro was a half point behind and Adena was two back with 49 points. Even with the public address announcer broadcasting the situation, it wasn't hard to figure that the meet boiled down to one event.

All three mile relay teams were in the second heat, and it took a school-record shattering time of 3:35.6 to give Miami Trace their first championship track trophy.

Dave Ritenour ran the first leg for the Panthers and he shared the lead after the first quarter mile. Bruce

Ervin took the baton on the second leg, and he opened up a slight lead over Hillsboro. By the time Greg Cobb took Ervin's handoff it was a two team race between the Panthers and Hillsboro. Adena, it seemed, would have to settle for third.

Cobb maintained the slight lead and handed to anchorman Bill Warnock. Hillsboro's Rick Kelch was anchoring the Indians team. Warnock, last year's South Central Ohio League quarter-mile champion, couldn't shake the determined Kelch until the final 50 yards. Warnock won by nearly two seconds giving the Panther relay team a school record, four seconds off a 1972 mark.

"He left little doubt that he is the best 440 man around," Beatty said after Warnock's anchor run was clocked in :51.5, over a second better than his school record setting time last season. Beatty, who coached Hillsboro until last year, said although Kelch sets few records individually he is one of the finest relay runners he has seen. "When he (Kelch) gets a baton in his hand, he's a different runner," Beatty said. "He gets kind of emotional about it."

Kelch let his emotions show a little too much for the officials' liking after his second place finish to Miami Trace. The Indian speedster tossed the baton in disgust and Hillsboro was disqualified giving Adena the runnerup trophy.

While the three-way fight for first was going on Washington C.H. was picking up points to finish behind the top three with 40 points. The Blue Lions tied Greenfield McClain for the fourth-place spot.

"Whenever we don't need much depth, like in relays with a lot of teams, we do alright," Blue Lion coach Rick Crooks said.

Washington C.H.'s high finish was mainly due to the efforts of speedsters Joe Cox, Ed DeWees, Mark Forsythe and Greg Greene. The four combined for a first-place finish in the 440 relay and a second in the half-mile relay. Cox won the 100 while Forsythe and DeWees picked up points in the field portion of the meet which was scored as individual events.

Miami Trace got off to a good start in the field events with Dan Gifford and Art Schlichter placing one, two in the high jump. Gifford's leap of 6'3 1/4" was only one-half inch off the meet record.

Ralph Fast picked up points in both the shot and discus taking fifth in both events. It was his best throws of the season.

Rod Garringer picked up a third in the pole vault while Frank Dunn placed fifth behind Cox (first) and Forsythe (third) in the 100-yard dash.

Beatty figured the Panthers would have to win three possibly four of the relay races to have a shot at the first place trophy. The Panthers won three, and it was enough.

Miami Trace's first win came in the sprint medley relay. Greg Cobb ran the opening 220 before handing off to Dean Faris for a 110-yard leg. Warnock followed with a quarter mile and Bill Hanners anchored the half-mile leg. Hanners stayed right with Hillsboro's Tyler Woods until the home stretch and broke the tape first to give the Panthers a two-tenths of a second win.

The Panthers followed with a win in the distance medley which consists of a half mile, a 220, a quarter mile and a mile. Ross Brown ran the first leg followed by Ervin and Ritenour, but it was Terry Rodgers' anchor mile that gave Miami Trace an easy win. That win put the Panthers into the point-total lead. However, Adena took over first place with a second-place finish to Washington C.H. in quarter-mile relay.

The shuttle hurdle relay followed and Hillsboro placed second to host team Unioto in the event. Miami Trace took fourth and Adena took fifth setting up the final event.

It was Miami Trace's first championship track trophy ever. Beatty searched all of the trophy cases at the school after the Panthers trophy winning second-place finish in the Unioto Metric the previous Saturday.

"I found a lot of basketball trophies, but no track," Beatty reported.

The Panthers will return to track action Thursday with a dual meet at Jamestown. Washington C.H. will travel to East Clinton Tuesday for a quadrangle meet.

Cavs pace Washington

By The Associated Press
The Cleveland Cavaliers, dancing their way through the National Basketball Association playoffs, are doing the hustle the way it's supposed to be done.

And if they keep it up tonight, they'll hustle high-powered Washington right off the court and step into the semifinals.

The Cavaliers, in the playoff for the first time in their six-year history, lead the Bullets 3-2 in the best-of-seven series, thanks to dashing Dick Snyder, who ran into foul trouble but still managed to run up 26 points in Cleveland's fifth-game victory Thursday night, a 92-91 squeaker.

In Sunday's two playoffs, Buffalo beat Boston 98-93 for its first victory in three games against the Celtics and Seattle stayed alive with a 114-108 victory over Phoenix.

Emotion-packed meet leads to disqualification

Officials in any sport are ridiculed, cussed, threatened, etc. for their controversial decisions; even their non-controversial decisions.

Saturday at the Unioto Relays an officials made a controversial decision. I am not going to ridicule (well maybe a bit), curse, threaten, etc. that official for his decision, but I am going to state that it was a poor one.

The decision was to disqualify Hillsboro's mile relay team after the final race of the day. Hillsboro had just placed second in the race to Miami Trace giving the Panthers' first-place trophy and the Indians the second-place trophy.

The Hillsboro anchorman was breathing heavy after the race. He walked a few yards with his hands on hips and then tossed the baton to the side in disgust.

An alert judge saw the actions and deemed them to be unsportsmanlike disqualifying the Indian relay team. It meant more than a mere loss of points to the runnerup Indians. It meant the second-place trophy which was awarded to Adena.

Miami Trace, Hillsboro and Adena were within two points of each other. The way the three teams finished in the final race would be the way the three finished in the meet.

It was broadcast over the public address system adding excitement to the meet. The P.A. announcer kept broadcasting the situation during the entire Picture a runner, who is caught up in this emotion. One who finds himself two strides behind the leader at the handoff. He knows he must finish in front of that runner or his team loses the championship. People are yelling and cheering. The P.A. announcer is blasting away. The runner also knows he is two strides behind the fastest quarter miler in the district.

The runner gives it everything he's got especially down the home stretch, but it is not enough. He finishes second just as the P.A. announcer calls Miami Trace the winner. The Panther runner is mobbed by teammates. The other runner takes a few few steps and discards his baton with a quick flip.

The rules say the runner and his team should be disqualified. Relay runners are not allowed to throw a baton "in an unsportsmanlike manner." The official deemed the runners actions as unsportsmanlike. It was a judgement call. The main reason for the rule, I presume, is to guard against injury to a bystander.

I saw the runner. His actions didn't seem unsportsmanlike to me. I viewed it as a release of honest emotion, just like the winner hugging his teammates. The runner did not hit anyone with his toss, nor would it have hurt anyone if he had.

Track is an emotional sport. If you don't want to see the agony of defeat along with the thrill of victory, lets program robots to run races let them finish, and get on the bus.

The most unsportsmanlike action of the day was awarding Adena a track trophy it didn't deserve.

ONE OF MANY — Washington C.H.'s Jim Donahue hands the baton to Bret Wilson in Saturday's distance medley relay. The handoff was one of many on the Unioto track during the Sherman's ninth annual relay meet.

Reds hurler tosses shutout

Gullett tops Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Lefthander Don Gullett complained that his fastball was lacking, but the stuff he had was good enough to stifle the Expos for six innings as the Cincinnati Reds humbled Montreal 7-0 Sunday.

"It gives me confidence that I can go out there without my real good stuff and still pitch a decent game," said Gullett, 1-0, after giving up five hits in his first start and second appearance of the year.

"I'll be better when my fastball comes around. I went down to the bullpen afterwards to work on it and threw about 20 pitches, about another inning's worth."

Pat Darcy, a right-hander, checked the Expos on two hits through the last three innings to record his first save and share the shutout.

Gullett missed two months of last season with a broken thumb suffered in a game against Atlanta Braves, and the time on the disabled list probably cost him his first 20-victory season. He returned to the lineup Aug. 18 and ended up at 15-4 for a .789 winning percentage that led the league.

"I wasn't really consistent with my fastball the way I wanted," Gullett said after the Reds beat the Expos for the second straight day to win a three-game series. "I had good location, though, and that's what I was happy about—that and some good off-speed stuff."

Manager Sparky Anderson was less enthusiastic, saying: "He didn't have anything. He was throwing some breaking stuff, but the big thing is he went six."

Montreal had only one run in each inning, but only one got past second. Pete Macknin slammed a one-out double and moved to third on a wild pitch in the fourth before he was stranded.

Cincinnati got home runs from Johnny Bench and Dave Concepcion, the later's a two-run shot in the fourth inning. Ken Griffey drove in two runs with a double and single, while Joe Morgan had a run-scoring double and Bench rapped an RBI single.

Steve Niekro, 0-1, made his first start of the year for Montreal and was unimpressive, leaving after surrendering eight hits, including both Reds homers, in five innings. Don Stanhouse, who gave up the final Cincinnati run, and Dale Murray went two innings each in relief.

John Candelaria was in midseason form. He went a solid nine innings.

Candelaria, Pittsburgh's rangy young left-hander, stifled San Francisco on a measly two hits Sunday and — surprising even himself — shut out the Giants 3-0.

In Sunday's other National League games, New York beat Houston 4-2, St. Louis stifled San Diego 3-1, Atlanta edged Philadelphia 4-3 and Los Angeles defeated Chicago 5-4 in 10 innings.

Candelaria gave up only one legitimate hit, Willie Montanez' double in the fifth inning. The other was a first-inning fluke, when shortstop Frank Taveras lost Bobby Murcer's pop-up in the sun.

"Montanez hit a good pitch, a fastball inside," Candelaria conceded. And he admitted he didn't expect to be around at the end of the game. "I was surprised I could go nine. The cool weather at Candlestick helped."

The Pirates gave him all the help he needed with six hits and three runs in the fifth inning, starting with Willie Stargell's third homer of the year.

Mets 4, Astros 2
Houston's Joe Niekro wildpitched home New York's tiebreaking run in the eighth inning and Ron Hodges singled for another one, then Ken Sanders' who had replaced Mets' starter Jon Matlack in the seventh, made the runs stand up.

Cards 3, Padres 1
Willie Crawford drove in two runs for the Cardinals with a homer and a sacrifice fly, and John Curtis struggled through nine innings by scattering 10 San Diego hits for his first victory of the season.

St. Louis scored in the second when left fielder Johnny Grubb dropped Reggie Smith's fly ball for a three-base error and Crawford hit his fly ball. In the fifth, Crawford homered, Ron Fairly walked Don Kessinger doubled. Mike Ivie homered in the ninth for the Padres.

Braves 3, Phillies 2
Atlanta's Dave May hadn't had a hit all year — until Larry Cristenson tried to slip one too many fastballs past him. The results was a two-run homer in the sixth inning that beat the Phils.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 4
Los Angeles put together its first two-game winning streak of the young season — and it took an unearned run in the 10th inning to get it.

Ted Sizemore was safe when first baseman Andre Thornton juggled a throw by shortstop Dave Rosello. John Hale bunted him to second and he scored on Ron Cruz's single to center field. Henry Cruz hit his first major league homer for the Dodgers, a three-run shot.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Walter's acceptance of a contract reportedly paying her $1 million a year for five years to leave NBC and co-anchor the "ABC Evening News" and do other ABC projects is now overshadowed by a more interesting story. Scott Mott, a 6-year-old, was offered $300,000 a year for 10 years to anchor the evening "Action News" program of WWWW-TV in Bumfudgeon, Fla.

If he takes the job, he'll not only be the first 6-year-old to anchor an evening news program in a minor market, he'll also be the highest-paid 6-year-old in the history of television news.

"Variety," the show-biz bible, summed it all up in a headline: "Mott Tot Hot."

Welby Tidball, the new general manager of WWWW-TV, declined to comment on what money was offered the Mott tot. "All I can say is that it's a substantial offer," he said.

The lad, who gained overnight stardom with an exclusive interview of Mason Reese, wasn't available for interviews. His secretary said he was out playing marbles and wouldn't be back this week.

The youth is being represented in talks with WWWW by two agents from the Monster Child Agency, a talent firm that represents top child stars as well as news personalities below the legal age.

Jack "Swiftly" Sprat, one of the agents, said he couldn't comment on the reported offer of WWWW to his client.

"I don't think it'd be appropriate or fair to Scott." He also declined to say if the Calvin Coolidge Elementary School, where Mott is finishing his first year, had offered to match WWWW's offer.

But a school spokesman said it's unlikely that would happen. "All we have to offer is peanut butter, books and recess," he quipped.

"All this talk about money is academic," grumbled WWWW's Tidball. "Scott Mott is a proven name, an anchorman you can trust. We feel people will believe what he says."

"And," he chuckled, "he might even boost our ratings. Don't forget also that anchor salaries right now are only a small percentage of our total operating overhead for news."

Tidball was asked why the station didn't reduce Mott's salary to, say $100,000 and use the remaining $200,000 to hire more reporters and cameramen to actually go out and cover the news.

"That's also academic," he said. "If Scotty accepts our offer, we'll have to let go all our reporters and cameramen to pay him."

That doesn't make sense, he was told.

"Yes, but blame it on the market place," he said. "Sure, salaries are high, but you have to pay to get the best talent."

A footnote: Shortly after this was written, young Scott Mott accepted the $300,000-a-year offer and made his debut as anchorman of WWWW's evening "Action News" program.

He seemed unusually poised for a 6-year-old. The only sign of nervousness came midway in the show, when he broke down, started crying and began a story on Angola by shouting, "I want my Mommy!"

LADS AND LASSIES 4-H
Selection of Livestock was the main topic of the evening at the regular meeting of the Lads and Lassies 4-H Club when Mr. Charlie Andrews, Vocational Agricultural instructor at Miami Trace High School presented the program.

Mr. Andrews stressed the following points during his talk on selection. They were 1. be able to identify animal parts, 2. must keep up to date on current trends in market and purebred stock, 3. go to shows and listen to reasons, 4. practice judging, 5. keep an ideal image of the animal in mind, 6. imagine what the animal will look like.

He also said that proper housing with no draft, proper bedding, proper feeding a certain percent protein and proper water were very important in giving your animal proper care. He gave the following tips for the County Fair in July. Those taking steers must own their steers by January 1, 1976, and will show at the fair on July 29. Ideal weight should be 950 lbs. to 1200 lbs. They should gain approximately 2.1-2.4 lbs. per day. Hog and Lamb projects must be owned by May 10. Hogs will be shown on July 27 at the fair and final weight 200 lbs. to 230 lbs. Daily weight gain approximately 1.5 lbs to 2.0 lbs. per day.

Lambs will be shown on July 28 and final weight 90 lbs. to 125 lbs., approximate daily gain should be three fourths lb. per day. He also stated that two forces that act on animal production are hereditary and environment.

During the business meeting conducted by Brenda Steinhauer, a discussion was held on touring the Ohio State Veterinary School. Members were all reminded to pay their $1.00 dues as they are due now.

The group voted to change their meeting time to 8:00 p.m. for the rest of the year. All members were encouraged to attend the Lamb and Pig Selection and Judging Clinic April 21 at the Fairgrounds.

Those taking lamb and pig projects were reminded that they must have animals on feed by May 10 in order to show at the Fayette County Fair.

A demonstration Clinic will be held on May 6th and those interested in giving a demonstration for the County Fair were encouraged to attend.

The next meeting will be May 4th at the home of Mike Campbell. Refreshment for this meeting will be by Alan Thompson and Cindy Thompson. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Jeff Williams and Jim McCoy.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Children with Ulcers? Yes

I just can't believe it, but we were told that our 10-year-old daughter has a stomach ulcer. No one we know has ever heard of such a thing. Could the doctor be wrong?

Mrs. G.R.E., N.J.

Dear Mrs. E.: The fact that your friends are unaware that stomach ulcers do occur in children should not undermine your faith in your doctor's diagnosis.

Stomach and duodenal ulcers, once thought to be the private property of adults, are being seen more frequently in young children and adolescents.

Many children with "belly cramps" are now being studied more actively to find the exact cause. There has been, for a long time, a tendency to minimize these complaints, and even consider them to be more fanciful than real.

Children, like adults, are affected by the relationship between physical and emotional problems. It is recognized that ulcers in children may be related to emotional stress and the pressures of school or family life.

When the possibility of an ulcer in a child occurs to the doctor he uses the same methods of study as he does with adults. X-rays with barium can quickly reveal the presence of an ulcer.

It is then that intensive attention to the physical problem, coupled with psychological support, becomes essential.

Is it possible for a cold to last for months? I seem to have the symptoms and just can't get rid of them.

Miss E.E.W., Pa.

Dear Miss W.: It is highly improbable that any infection would stay for such a long time. Infections are either cured or progress and show more complicated evidence of disease.

The chances are great that the symptoms that you complain of are probably allergic in origin, rather than infectious.

The possibility of a chronic infection of the sinuses must be considered. With X-rays of the sinuses, this possibility can be uncovered.

My mother awoke one day and complained of pain in her leg. Of all things, they found a fracture. How can this happen without an injury or accident?

Miss B.L., Minn.

Dear Miss L.: "Spontaneous fractures" can and do occur without injury in people whose bones are brittle and have diminished calcium.

There are a number of conditions, such as "osteoporosis" and "osteomalacia," associated with loss of calcium.

In the elderly, these are some of the conditions that might account for this unusual type of fracture.

Opening lead — four of hearts.

Here is a fine hand played by Bob Hamman, Texas star. It demonstrates the power of positive thinking.

West led a low heart and Hamman saw at once that if the outstanding trumps were divided normally (3-2) the contract would depend on whether he could hold himself to one club loser.

Hamman judged that if West had held the A-K of diamonds he would surely have led a diamond rather than a heart, and he therefore started by crediting East with one of the high diamond honors.

He also assumed from the opening lead that East had a good portion of the missing heart strength, since West would surely have led the king of hearts had he held the K-Q-J or K-Q of that suit.

It followed that East could not also have the king of clubs, since he would not have remained silent during the bidding had he held that card in addition to the 6 or 7 points he was marked with in the red suits.

Accordingly, after winning the heart lead with the ace, Hamman rejected the club finesse. Instead, at trick two, he played a low club to the ace. The ace caught a big fish, the king, and now Hamman was well on the way to making the contract.

He played the ace of spades, followed by a spade to the queen, and next led a low club from dummy, planning to finesse the eight if East followed low. But East put up the nine of clubs, won by Hamman with the queen, and West, now out of trumps, discarded a diamond on the trick.

Hamman then drew East's last trump, conceded a club and two diamonds to the enemy, and in that way brought to a conclusion an exceptionally well-played hand.

In East Monroe community

Greenfield resident charged in shooting

HILLSBORO — A Greenfield man has been charged with felonious assault following a shooting incident early Saturday in the East Monroe community in Highland County.

Carl B. Simmons, of Greenfield, has been charged with felonious assault in connection with a gunshot wound suffered by Phillip Ravenscraft, 21, of Greenfield, following a family quarrel. Ravenscraft was treated and later released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital in Washington C.H. for the gunshot wound in his right calf.

Bond for Simmons was set at $10,000 on the felonious assault charge after he appeared Monday morning in Hillsboro Municipal Court.

Simmons is being held in Highland County jail in lieu of bond.

The shooting incident occurred at 3 a.m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. Idabella Simmons in the East Monroe community, four miles west of Greenfield.

Mrs. Simmons is the ex-wife of the felonious assault suspect.

Highland County sheriff's deputies said that Mrs. Simmons reported that Simmons had entered her home and assaulted her shortly before 2 a.m. Saturday.

The domestic quarrel continued until Ravenscraft arrived at the home with the couple's daughter, Melinda Simmons at about 2 a.m. Saturday, according to the report.

Sheriff's deputies reported that, according to Mrs. Simmons, her ex-husband left the premises, but returned approximately one hour later.

At that time, Ravenscraft, who was outside the home, said he heard what he believed to be gunshots and was hit in the leg with a slug from a .22-caliber weapon.

Simmons, who was driving a pickup truck, was apprehended by Greenfield police officer Roger Poole at the intersection of Sixth and South streets in Greenfield 20 minutes later.

Walter Matthau has heart surgery

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor Walter Matthau was listed in satisfactory condition at a hospital here after undergoing a successful "by-pass procedure" heart operation.

Doctors at Daniel Freeman Hospital described the operation Saturday night as elective rather than emergency surgery.

Matthau, 52, stars in the current movie "Bad News Bears." A spokesman said he was expected to recover in time to begin work on a new film scheduled for production in early summer.

Red China uninterested in U.S. arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — China is not interested in buying U.S. weapons or forming any defense alliance with the United States, according to a congressional delegation just back from a week-long visit to China.

The group did not meet with Hua Kuo-feng, the new premier, but conferred for 90 minutes with Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao and Foreign Minister Shiao Kuan Hua.

"They were not interested in a formal defense association with the United States," Rep. William Randall, D-Mo., said Sunday night. "They expressed no interest in acquiring either U.S. weapons or military technology."

In a telephone interview he said the Chinese believe they have "irreconcilable differences with Russia" and he added that officials stressed their determination to be "independent and self-reliant."

The delegation led by Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., returned Sunday from a trip undertaken at the invitation of the Chinese. Nine members of the House Armed Services and International Relations committees made the journey.

U.S. officials have speculated about giving military aid to China, former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger revealed recently, but never went beyond the speculative stage.

Schlesinger and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, generally regarded as the Senate's foremost authority on China, have said that military aid to China should not be rejected "out of hand."

Coins stolen from gun show tables

Two reported larcenies in which valuable coins were stolen in each case occurred Saturday during the monthly gun show and flea market held on the Fayette County Fairgrounds. Eight other non-related incidents were investigated over the weekend by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Sometime around 10 a.m. Saturday, approximately 200 coins, valued at $300, were reported stolen from a booth occupied by Fredrick E. Blair, 45, of Pickerington, in the Mahan Building. Blair had left briefly to eat, and upon returning, discovered the items missing.

Later that day, between the hours of 12 noon and 1 p.m., various 50-cent pieces worth $272 were allegedly stolen from another booth in the Mahan Building. The coins belonged to Sherman D. Steele, 71, of Cincinnati.

A trumpet, guitar, and sewing machine, all valued at $400 were reported stolen from the home of Charles R. Roark, 794 Knollwood Circle, sometime between 7 p.m. Friday and 9 p.m. Saturday while he was away. The house had been entered by unknown subjects, and exited through a rear sliding door.

Robert Reed, 3882 Old Springfield Road, told sheriff's deputies that a $50 automatic transmission was stolen from his front yard sometime last week.

A lawn mower was reportedly stolen sometime between 8 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. Saturday from the front yard of Walter Dean, Worthington Road.

James M. Reno, 20, of 2484 CCC Highway-E, told sheriff's deputies that four wheel rims were stolen from his car as it was parked in the Bowland Lanes parking lot between 9:20 and 9:35 Sunday.

A mailbox and name plate belonging to Mary Harper, 1377 Mount Olive Rd., was reported stolen sometime during Friday night.

A window on a car belonging to Emmanuel Jamminson, Baltimore, Md., was broken in an apparent attempt to gain entry and steal a citizen's band radio within. The incident occurred in Garner's Union 76 parking lot between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Washington C.H. police officers reported incidents of assault, burglary and vandalism over the week end.

Judy L. Webb, 228 Water St., was treated and released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital after she was involved in a domestic altercation in front of the Emerald Inn at 12:10 a.m. Saturday. She stated that she had been struck four or five times.

Returning from work, John Ellerbe, 322 Broadway St., told police officers that a $99 television set had been stolen from his house sometime between 5 p.m. Saturday and 3:17 a.m. Sunday.

William Carter, 113 N. Oakland Ave., told police officers he found a rock lodged in a garage window and $10 worth of damage done to the glass structure. The incident is believed to have occurred last week.

Cleveland musical group records 'Porgy and Bess'

CLEVELAND (AP) — In an era when even opera companies in America don't record operas, the Cleveland Orchestra and Chorus has done so.

London Records has just released the Cleveland recording of the George Gershwin opera, "Porgy and Bess." Operas are rarely recorded in the United States because of the cost. Even if a record company has a great American singer in its stable, the opera recording is almost always done in Europe.

The last opera recorded in the United States was the Leonard Bernstein "Carmen" three years ago, and over the last years there has been a total of perhaps four.

So how did Cleveland do it? In part by working fast, holding down costs, and in part because its previous Gershwin works under conductor Lorin Maazel have done well for London Records.

Besides, the shorus sings for nothing; the members are volunteers.

Maazel has been conducting a good bit of Gershwin and liked the idea. There had never been a complete "Porgy and Bess" recorded. This three-record version is complete.

One of the measures that might be called cost-effective was the production last summer of "Porgy and Bess" at nearby Blossom Music Center, a suburban outdoor facility between Cleveland and Akron that seats thousands and draws top-name touring performances. In effect, it was a rehearsal for the recording sessions.
